Mr. Grundy's Surprise.
The Rockefellers Stopped.
The World Will Last.
Give Me Gas, Says China.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

MR. GRUNDY, able industrialist, unpaid and powerful lobbyist for industrialism, will not return to the Senate to which he was appointed. Mr. Davis, labor secretary, and a labor unionist, beat Grundy overwhelmingly at the primaries Tuesday.

Opposition to the tariff is supposed to have cut Mr. Grundy's vote. There was probably some other, bigger power back of Mr. Davis.

Mr. McBride says the prohibition cause only got $1000 all together from Henry Ford, and Mr. Rockefeller hasn't given any money to the Anti-Saloon League since 1926.

It was in or about 1926 that many who had favored prohibition and hoped for the best possible results changed their minds.

There is no indication, however, that the Rockefeller family has changed its mind on prohibition. But it has stopped contributing money.

Perhaps it has changed its mind about the Anti-Saloon League.

Here is comfort. Worry no more about the world coming to an end. A Canadian scientist says the sun is about 10 billion years old and will last at least 10 billion years longer. Ten thousand million years is a long time.

While the sun lasts the earth will last. The human race may be partially, or completely wiped out at intervals, compelled to begin all over again, working its way up from microscopic creatures floating in salt water.

"Where we stand now there was once ice about 6000 feet thick. The ice will come again, go again. Ultimately it will remain."

So says Dr. A. B. Reeve. It does not believe that this world is just a machine, or that spiritual things are of unimportance for which much thanks. Even the earth would have no existence if there were not spirits, locked up in our brains to see it, and make it real by understanding it.

We have, by the way, a new ancestor, nothing less than a fish fossil, with a hinged neck, that lived about 200,000,000 years ago. He was found near the city of Buffalo, N. Y., where he used to swim when the northern part of the United States was covered with water.

That fish with the hinge in its neck was a necessary part of our evolution, if you believe science.

Now we have hinges all the way down our necks, and all the way down our spines to the last joint, the os coccyx, all we have left of a tail we once carried around.

China apparently means to be up-to-date, in war. The French authorities in Indo-China have seized a shipment of poison gas for the Nanking government.

France suggests that Germany supplied the poison gas. The German foreign office denies it.

The important thing for this peace loving country is the proof that, when war comes, fighters turn naturally to poison gas.

London, which often knows more about our affairs than we know, says money will be even cheaper than it was. The bank rate may be reduced to 2½ per cent.

Paris reports money "unlendable." If only that had been the case last October, when the sky was the limit and everything going up. Then people wanted money and had to pay 15 and 20 per cent to borrow it. Now they don't want it and can get it for almost nothing.

Mrs. Naidu, poetess, replacing Gandhi, now in jail, as leader of the Hindus, has been arrested with Gandhi's son.

Gandhi promises to provoke arrests until all the jails and other buildings are filled and wonders what Britain will do then. It is a difficult question.

If you put a million Hindus in jail, there would be 219,000,000 left to carry on Gandhi's "civil disobedience" campaign.

Gandhi tells an interviewer that India demands "full freedom." Propagandists for the Indian revolution in America say that before Britain took control of India it was a great and free nation. History provides little information to that effect.

Would the administration and Congress tell the nation what, if anything, they propose to do about Muscle Shoals?

There power goes to waste worth millions a year.

That power could produce fertilizer that farmers need.

TWO HELD IN $3,000,000 'SWINDLE'

Brokers Are Alleged to Have Duped 75,000; Bail Fixed at $30,000; Grand Jury May Act

Further arrests in the $3,000,000 stock fraud that already has placed Isaac Hart and Joseph Pollay of Boston in custody, were expected today.

Hart and Pollay, members of the stock selling firm of Hart & Co. of Milk st., were arrested on conspiracy charges following a secret investigation into the alleged swindle.

It is alleged by investigators that about 75,000 persons throughout New England were victimized.

Arraigned in East Cambridge court, Hart and Pollay, on advice of counsel, refused to enter pleas. Judge Arthur P. Stone ordered the clerk to enter pleas of not guilty, then the court held each defendant in $15,000 bail pending trial in two weeks.

Meanwhile, it is understood, the case will be presented to the grand jury.

PRICES BOOSTED

The two were arrested in Springfield last night by State Detective David J. Manning and Springfield police, acting on instructions of Atty-Gen. Joseph E. Warner. They were seized in a raid during a meeting of the Hart company's representatives. All others at the meeting were compelled to identify themselves and were then released.

Hart and Pollay are said to have been involved in the sale of $2,000,000 in stock of the Page and Shaw Co. and $1,000,000 in stocks of the Holland Far East Tea and Coffee Corp.

Pollay lives on Foster st., Lynn, according to Detective Lieut. John Stokes; the stock was disposed of largely through misrepre-

HIT PATTERSON PENSION AS 'ILLEGAL'

Crooker Warns the Legislative Committee Ten Taxpayers Can Prevent Payment

An attack by Conrad W. Crooker, representing the Liberal Civic League, on the legality of the pension awarded to Capt. George W. Patterson, former head of the liquor and narcotic squads, featured a hearing today before the legislative joint rules committee on the bill to amend police pensions statutes.

Crooker told the committee that if 10 taxpayers brought suit before the Supreme court to enjoin paying of the pension of Patterson the body would undoubtedly support the plea because of the six to three ruling involved in the pension award.

MAY'S SILVERMAN ERRED

Crooker declared that when Commissioner Silverman put Patterson's pension application to Mayor Curley for his approval he was entirely within his rights and asserted that failure of the mayor to approve the application invalidated the pension.

He further declared that Corporation Counsel Samuel Silverman erred in ruling that the mayor's approval was unnecessary and that the Supreme court would so rule if the taxpayers' petition for an injunction against the pension payment were filed.

Crooker admonished the committee to exercise care in recommending an amendment of present pension statutes lest its action might legalize Patterson's pension before such legality were tested.

HULTMAN URGES CHANGE.

The bill before the committee is sponsored by Senator Leland F. Fish of Brookline and Representative Thomas R. Bateman of Winchester. It has as its principal feature the adoption of a clause providing a 10-day period between a pension application and its ultimate award.

Commissioner Hultman, who also appeared before the committee, expressed himself in favor of that clause, but recommended that the section of the proposed legislation dealing with charges against pension applicants should be limited in its application.

Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner also favored the 10-day clause and supported the recommendation of Hultman concerning limitation of grounds on which charges might be filed against a pension application and concerning persons inclining such charges.

Philadelphia, May 22 (AP)—Babe Ruth hit his 10th and 11th home runs of the season and his fifth in two days in the third and fourth innings of the first game of today's double-header between the New York Yankees and the Athletics. Ruth was the first batter in the third inning. Howard Ehmke was in the box for Philadelphia.

Aboard the Graf Zeppelin, May 22—The Graf Zeppelin, streaking along through a dark tropical night under an overcast sky, pointed her nose direct for St. Paul's rocks and Pernambuco, with only four motors running and a 12-mile trade wind pushing steadily along.

In 12 hours' flight, from 8 o'clock yesterday morning, until 8 last night, the ship dashed over 841 land miles above the Atlantic, averaging 70 miles an hour on her four motors.

"If we can keep up our present speed, we should pass over St. Paul's rocks by 1 p. m. to-

SOARS OVER ISLAND 125 MILES OFF COAST

Graf Now Due at Pernambuco in Early Afternoon; to Stop for Water

Fernando do Noronha, Brazil, May 22 (AP)—The huge dirigible Graf Zeppelin, rapidly nearing the end of her South Atlantic flight from Seville, Spain, to Pernambuco, Brazil, flew over the island of Fernando do Noronha, off the Brazilian coast at 1:40 p. m. today (10:40 a. m., E. S. T.).

Fernando Do Noronha is about 125 miles from Pernambuco, where a mooring mast has been erected to receive the great German airship.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, who was making his first crossing of the Equator, became a member of Neptune's band in accordance with the time-honored tradition of the sea. He was baptized by other members of the party who already had their papers as Neptune's sons and daughters.

Radio advices picked up at the Olinda station said that the Graf expected to reach Pernambuco this afternoon and to stay there several hours for fuel and water, then going on to Rio Janeiro.

After a brief stay at the Brazilian capital he planned to return to Pernambuco, so as to be able to start for Havana Sunday or Monday.

The Zeppelin at 8:45 a. m. G. M. T. (3:45 a. m. E. S. T.) today reported its position as 250 miles distant from this island, which is about 175 miles from Pernambuco, its goal in a Seville to Brazil transatlantic flight.

The Graf's position was given as 2 north latitude, 30 west longitude.

The Zeppelin reported that navigation conditions were fine. The radio station here for the first time was in constant direct communication with the dirigible.

Pernambuco, Brazil, May 22 (AP) — Northeastern Brazil and the most northeasterly section of the South American continent prepared today to extend a hearty welcome to the Graf Zeppelin as the airship was reported steadily approaching the coast early today.

HUB PLANS BIG INDUSTRY FAIR

The greatest industrial and amusement spectacle ever presented outside a world's fair is being planned for Boston for the summer of 1931, city officials revealed today.

To be known as "The New England States' Century of Progress Exposition," the project will be sponsored by the city's Commercial, Industrial and Publicity Bureau, with the approval and endorsement of Mayor Curley.

The mammoth industrial exposition will be held at Columbus Park, Broadway, South Boston, where something like 1500 buildings covering a tract of 65 acres will be erected.

It is the intention of Mayor Curley to appoint a committee of representative manufacturers and business men of the city to serve in an advisory capacity.

The project, which is expected to draw more than 1,000,000 out of town visitors during its 30-day operation, will be confined almost exclusively to exhibiting the process of manufacture and the exploitation of New England industries.

Col. John S. Berger, one of the foremost exposition directors in the country, will have charge of the undertaking. Because of the sesquicentenary actual work on the exposition and development of buildings will not be started until September, October of this year. It is planned to keep the two events entirely separated.

ATMOSPHERE OF UTTER RELAXATION ABOARD GRAF OVER OCEAN

OFFICERS AND CREW JOLLY ON FLIGHT

Life on Zeppelin as It Nears South America Is Described as Ideal Aerial Travel

EXCLUSIVE

By LADY DRUMMOND HAY

First Woman Transatlantic Zeppelin Passenger and First Woman to Make a Zeppelin Flight Around the World.

(Copyright, 1930, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., in United States, Canada, Mexico, Japan, South America, England, Ireland and Continental Europe. All Rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

Radio via Friedrichshafen

Aboard the Graf Zeppelin, May 22—The sight of the Cape Verde Islands has whetted our appetite for more space, land and water, to conquer.

The Island of Sal, the first of the Verdes, as they are called, is a little brown topaz, glistening in the iridescent blue-green sea. Its name means "salt."

Although the Zeppelin is traveling along at a good clip, and having favorable weather, there is to be no making up of the time we lost in the Sevilla take-off or hunting around for good winds between the Madeira and Canary Islands.

Dr. Eckener informed the passengers that we would have our first sight of South America this evening.

Dr. Jeronimo Megias, the physician who several times acted as ship's doctor on the round-world flight, again was called to act professionally, this time for a member of the crew.

I really believe he is more proud of being the first airship flying doctor than being personal physician to the King of Spain. He declared:

"A regular doctor is absolutely necessary on trans-ocean airships carrying more than 60 persons. Some of the crew and passengers are bound to be unaccustomed to the altitudes reached."

Six o'clock in the morning found the salon crowded with early risers awaiting breakfast with sharpened appetites. Several were up all night, fascinated by the beauties of the starry night and the view we had of the Canaries in the early dawn.

The passengers without exception are happy, and only Dr. Eckener pretends to be discontented because he can't find his "best trade winds."

There is an atmosphere of the utter relaxation of the careless southern seas in this pleasure cruise. Dr. Eckener and his crew are taking things easier and politer than I have ever seen them before on a Zeppelin trip. Comdr. Shoemaker, of the United States Navy, said:

"This is the way it ought to be and will be in the future, now that the pioneer trail is successfully blazed."

Our meals are served smartly and punctually, including our dainty afternoon tea. The passengers are still enjoying the novelty of air touring to pay too much attention to cards and games.

Digest Gave $1500 to Dry Campaigners

Washington, May 22 (US)—The firm of Funk & Wagnalls, publishers of the Literary Digest, contributed $1000 in 1916 and $500 in 1918 to the Anti-Saloon League, the Senate lobby committee revealed yesterday.

The Literary Digest has been conducting the poll which shows a heavy sentiment against prohibition. Drys have attacked this poll as unreliable.

Let This Be the End of "King" Joe Grundy!

From King to Deuce in a Day!

Such was the rapid transition of Senator Joe Grundy. "King" of the United States Senate, Vicar of the Special Interests and Champion of the Tariff Gougers, when the Pennsylvania Republicans unleashed their ballots Tuesday.

He is the first, BUT NOT THE LAST, Apostle of the Special Interests to feel the wrath of an electorate outraged by the Smoot-Hawley Tariff.

Those other Senators and Representatives who must "appeal to the country" this year, ought to SEE THE LIGHT in the toppling of King Joe from his throne.

day (10 o'clock, E. D. T.), and we should be at Recife, Pernambuco, between 4 and 5 o'clock in the evening."

That was Dr. Eckener's announcement. He also stated that he had not yet decided whether to proceed to Rio de Janeiro or moor at Pernambuco first to refuel.

This was a day of clouds and mists, and with only occasional bursts of sunshine. Dashing over those marvelous Cape Verde Islands was our most pleasant interlude.

FIRST MAIL DROPPED
Natives of Porto Praia Gaze in Wonder

We crossed the desolate and almost uninhabited island of Sal (Salt Island) in a few minutes, and then skirted the coast of equally dreary Bonavista. We later rounded the corner of Santiago (Sao Thiago) and swung over the town of Porto Praia at 5:10 p. m. ship's time (2:10 p. m. E. D. T.).

Here we dropped our first transatlantic air mail pouch with a parachute. The population, mostly Negroes, had the sensation of their life when they pointed upward toward us. It reminded us a good deal of the shouts and cries that greeted us in the little Russian villages we passed over in the world flight.

Dr. Eckener then headed for Fofo Island, 35 miles westward, and gave us a glimpse of Mt. Pico, an extinct volcano. Our course then was laid direct for St. Paul's rocks.

The Graf Zeppelin's first flight across the equator is not likely to set up the best possible airship speed record between Europe and South America.

Contrary winds, instead of the trade winds usually connected with atmospheric conditions in these regions, have held the Graf back so that at the best, the Seville to Pernambuco flight will be 60 hours instead of 48, if not a few hours more.

This, however, will still be a big gain in time over the ten days of steamers.

A glorious dawn, followed a gorgeous starry night and greeted the early-rising passengers, or those, who like Lady Drummond-Hay, Mrs. Mary Pierce, or Dr. Badi, hardly slept at all.

The Graf Zeppelin, coming out of the eastern dawn, must have presented a magnificent picture in the sky to the British steamer Carnarvon Castle. The steamer kept repeating by wireless: "A beautiful sight! A beautiful sight!"

At 11 o'clock yesterday we were saluted by the Hamburg-American steamer, General Orsini, her decks black with excited, waving passengers and crew.

Stricken Sunday night, Mrs. Sturgis has been in a coma ever since and has only a small chance of recovery, it was learned today.

Her illness came just as Dr. Sturgis was resuming his practice and his work at the Sturgis Hospital. Victim of a heart attack, he was kept alive for a week in March by the administration of oxygen by inhalator, his friends in the Hull Fire Department working in relays over him. He appears to have fully recovered.

NEW ARRESTS IN STOCK FRAUD

sentation and at prices greatly in excess of its value.

Asst. Atty.-Gen. George B. Lourie, Lieut. Stokes and Detective Ferrari went to Springfield last night with warrants to place the two in East Cambridge jail.

MANY COMPLAINTS

Lourie, who has been secretly investigating the case for the attorney-general's office, declared that additional arrests were expected.

The scene of the raid, according to State Detective Manning, was a second rate lodging house at Commercial and Main sts., and not the sort of place where a gathering of financial men or stock brokers would be likely to be found.

One man present claimed to be an attorney from Connecticut and he was released. Police declared the lawyer stated that other salesmen of the company had been arrested and were being extradited to Connecticut for trial there on charges involving the sale of stocks.

The arrests last night came as the culmination to a long series of complaints and official investigations in Massachusetts and other New England states directed both against the stocks and the salesmen who disposed of the two issues.

The sale of the Page & Shaw stock was banned by the State department of public utilities last December. The Holland stock was banned in 1925.

Dist.-Atty. Robert T. Bushnell of Middlesex county, and the attorney-general's office have been investigating the case for the past three weeks, but private investigations have been carried on by the Boston Better Business Bureau and other organizations of its kind for close to a year.

The salesmen are alleged to have employed "high pressure" methods in inducing persons, chiefly people of average or slender means, to invest their savings in the securities.

The method in the case of the Page & Shaw stock was to give a share of stock free with two pounds of candy costing $2. Similarly in the case of the Holland stock, the system was to give a share of stock free with a half-pound of tea and a half-pound of cocoa for a price of $1.

After prospective purchasers had thus obtained an initial share of stock they were approached by salesmen who employed intensive methods to "unload" large blocks of the shares by misrepresenting their value and the past history of the companies, according to the authorities.

Discovery Puts Pep in Auto Gasoline, Experts Declare

Tulsa, Okla., May 22 (AP)—Discovery of a more powerful gasoline, a blend especially for automobiles, was announced to the Natural Gasoline Association's convention today.

The mixture restores what the motorist likes to call "the old-fashioned goodness" to gasoline, by which he means quick, easy starting in cold weather. It is described also as adding power which the "old-time" gas never had, and as increasing the available gasoline supply.

PINCHOT LEAD INCREASES TO 10,000

Plurality for Davis Reaches 238,000, With 411 Districts Still to Be Heard From Philadelphia, May 22 (AP)—Gifford Pinchot's lead over Francis Shunk Brown for the Republican gubernatorial nomination had mounted steadily today as belated returns from Tuesday's primary trickled in from isolated rural districts.

Unofficial figures from all but 212 of the State's 3701 election districts gave Pinchot, who ran independently, a plurality of more than 10,000 votes over Brown.

With the exception of Brown, all other candidates on the organization's slate for state-wide offices were victorious. Secretary Davis scored an overwhelming victory over Senator Grundy, in the Senatorial races, the secretary's plurality standing at 238,880 with 411 districts to be heard from.

The Anti-Prohibition ticket headed by Francis H. Bohlen, for Senator, and Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., for governor, polled more than a quarter of a million votes.

Grundy Defeat Seen as Blow at Tariff

By FRASER EDWARDS
Universal Service

Washington, May 22—Political Washington, viewing the Pennsylvania senatorial primary results from a national standpoint today, regarded the defeat of Senator Joseph R. Grundy as far more significant than the victory of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis.

Rejection of the erstwhile master lobbyist by the voters of the industrial stronghold of the nation was accepted generally as a repudiation of Grundyism as represented by the $1,000,000,000 tariff bill.

Yet, the administration derives some satisfaction from the fact that the tariff being the only issue between Davis and Grundy, the voters chose the advocate of a lower tariff.

GENERAL STRIKE IN PALESTINE

Jerusalem, May 22 (AP)—A general strike of the Jewish population of Jerusalem and other large centers in Palestine, in protest against suspension by the British government of the regular immigration schedule, went into effect at noon today. It was to last until evening.

2227 GAIN FOR SWAMPSCOTT

The Census Bureau today announced the figures for Swampscott as 10,526, a gain of 2227 or 27.8 per cent.

The figures for Ipswich are 5588, a decrease of 613 or 9.8 per cent.

possessed and failed to use such vast potentialities of wealth, insanity experts would be called.

In 1929, this country imported 1,000,000 tons of nitrate of soda, containing 150,000 tons of fixed nitrogen. Nitrate plant No. 2 at Muscle Shoals would produce 50,000 tons of fixed nitrogen a year. Muscle Shoals cost the United States more than $150,000,000.

It would employ thousands of AMERICAN workmen, now idle, increasing domestic purchasing power, saving the American farmer $12.83 a ton that he now pays to the Chilean government as export duty in nitrates. The work now done by Chile and the Germans would be done in the United States by Americans.

The Florence, Ala., chamber of commerce, most reasonably, asks the Republican administration to think this over.

Vatican May Use Planes to Transact Business

Vatican City, May 22—The renewed contact with the outside world made possible through the establishment of the Vatican State has brought with it a desire on the part of Pope Pius XI to employ every modern means in the transaction of church business.

Use of airplanes to expedite important transactions may thus be a commonplace of the future, for His Holiness is known to be an ardent believer in the possibilities of aviation.

Pope Pius

His interest was manifested recently during an audience with a Chinese bishop. The Pope expressed regret that he did not see his subordinates more often and pointed out that the airplane made the distance comparatively insignificant.

Kane, Former Harvard Football Captain, Weds

Richmond, Va., May 22 (AP)—Miss Armanda Stewart Bryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart Bryan of Richmond, was married here this afternoon to Richmond Keith Kane, New York lawyer, formerly a Harvard football captain.

The ceremony was in Emmanuel Episcopal church. Out-of-town guests included persons socially prominent in New York, Boston and other Eastern cities. The couple will sail for Italy, returning late in the summer to make their home in New York city.

Matrimony May Link Spain and Italy

Madrid, May 22—Persistent rumors that will not be downed are going the rounds of court circles to the effect that negotiations will be opened between the royal families of Spain and Italy relative to the possible marriage of the Infanta Beatriz and the Duke of Spoleto.

The much denied match, it was said by persons usually well informed concerning the inner workings of official circles, has reached the stage of actual discussion between the two houses. As previously, no official support was attached to the reports.

Lillian Gish May Wield Director's Megaphone

Berlin, May 22—Although her future is uncertain, one of the most talented actresses on the American screen, Lillian Gish may achieve added laurels as a director of European pictures.

Max Reinhardt, great man of the theater and renowned for his remarkable achievements in dramatics, considers that Miss Gish is not only a great actress, but that if given the opportunity, would prove just as successful in wielding the directorial megaphone.

NAVAL TREATY OBLIGES US TO BUILD MORE SHIPS THAN WE SCRAP

WEAKNESS IN BASE, MARINE IS IGNORED

Limits Our Strength Without Allowance for Vital Questions That May Arise

By CAPT. NELSON H. GOSS
United States Navy

(U. S. Naval Academy, 1905; commanded destroyers and convoy escorts in European war zone during World War; graduate Naval War College; recently commanding the U. S. ship Sirius; Captain Goss is a practical sea-going officer, who has devoted much study to the subject of sea power and is a well-known writer on naval subjects.)

The London treaty actually obliges us to build more tonnage of more expensive vessels than the capital ships it scraps or cancels.

It requires that we scrap 163,421 tons of battleships, submarines and destroyers.

It requires that we cancel the construction of 50,000 tons of 8-inch gun cruisers already authorized.

It does not permit us to build 140,000 tons of new capital ships which are permitted within the next two years under the Washington treaty.

At the same time if we are to maintain the navy at the strength permitted by the London treaty we must actually build 280,000 tons of modern cruisers, submarines and destroyers.

The treaty obliges us to build more tonnage of cruisers than it cancels—to build 75,000 tons; to cancel 50,000 tons.

It obliges us to build far more tonnage of destroyers and submarines than it requires us to scrap: to build—150,000 tons of destroyers, 38,000 tons submarines; to scrap—76,318 tons of destroyers, 17,208 of submarines.

IGNORE WEAKNESS

So much for REDUCTION and ECONOMY.

At Washington we scrapped our new vessels and kept our old ones; at London the British and Japanese kept their new ones and scrapped their old ones.

The London conference made no allowances for our weakness in naval bases or merchant marine, but reduced our capital ship and destroyer strength. It increased the Japanese ratio of capital ships and cruisers above the 5-5-3 ratio. It reduced both our actual and relative cruiser strength. It allotted equal submarine tonnage to Japan.

So much for PARITY.

The London treaty contains a clause that permits the British or Japanese or ourselves to change the prescribed limits at any time in a manner to suit their own convenience.

So much for PERMANENCY and SECURITY.

All people hoped and some believed that we had obtained parity at the Washington conference. It took some time before it was realized that the sort of parity we had obtained permitted the British to build two new battleships after we had scrapped our new ones.

Other powers quickly utilized the money we had saved them in capital ships to construct large programs of cruisers, submarines and destroyers; types not limited to Washington.

NO RECIPROCITY

We later authorized a number of cruisers of the kind we need, but nowhere near as much cruiser strength as the British, or comparatively the Japanese, had underway. We made no attempt to overcome our base limitations by constructing additional vessels that would help compensate for that weakness or our deficiencies in merchant vessels.

At Washington we showed our good intentions by agreeing to scrap our new programs.

At London the Japanese used their new programs as a basis for insisting on an increased ratio of comparative strength in all types sufficient to assure them an impregnable position in the Far East.

The British, notwithstanding that they had constructed two new powerful units, held out for a revision of the treaty provision which authorized us ultimately to equal their capital ship strength.

They also maintained that the same attitude in favor of 6-inch gun cruisers they had taken at Geneva and the same attitude they have always taken towards abolition or drastic reduction of submarines, for the same well known reasons. This with their bases would insure their present supremacy.

Yankee Feels Her Power

St. Louis Takes Hub Hospitals as Model

Boston was paid the compliment today of having its hospital facilities inspected by an official delegation from St. Louis because that city singled out the Hub as the best place in the country in which to make a study before launching a $15,000,000 public health program.

After calling on Mayor Curley, the visitors went to the City Hospital and later to Massachusetts General Hospital and the city health units. Tomorrow they will visit other institutions.

The Yankee, America cup defender candidate, spread her canvas to the breeze for the first time today off the Corinthian Yacht Club at Marblehead.

For the next few days, weather permitting, the crew of the Yankee will practise hoisting and lowering the sheets in preparation for the first speed trials of the craft, which will last a month, in Marblehead waters.

The Yankee crew include Jown S. Lawrence, manager of the syndicate which owns the cup defender; Raymond Hunt of Boston and Duxbury, Frank C. Paine and Chandler Hovey, both of Boston.

BUSHNELL ASKS DEATH PENALTY FOR SOARIS

Tells Jury Second Degree Conviction of One Means First on Other Victim

Arguing for the government in the double murder trial of Joaquin P. Soaris in Middlesex Court today, District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell said the jury, under the law, must find the defendant guilty of first degree murder.

"If you find the defendant guilty of only second degree murder in the death of Angelina Rodergues, he said the district attorney, "you must by the force of law find him guilty of first degree murder in the death of Mathilda Silva."

Soaris, the first Massachusetts defendant to be tried for two murders at the same time, was charged with shooting to death Angelina Rodergues, 17, who had spurned his love, and Mathilda Silva, 10, at a wedding in Lowell.

His counsel, Atty. James S. Cannon argued that he had been drinking all day prior to the wedding, that he loved the girl intensely and that she mocked Soaris while dancing. Cannon contended that Soaris was so drunk he lacked the criminal intent to commit murder, having been roused to maniacal rage by love and the girl's mockery.

Dist. Atty. Bushnell pointed out that drunkenness is no defense unless the mind is gone to such an extent the defendant could not be capable of criminal intent. He said the defendant had a vivid recollection of every activity and all conversation up to immediately before the shooting.

NUNS GET 190 OUT IN FIRE

Milwaukee, May 22 (AP)—The 190 small boys and 26 nuns at St. Aurmillian's orphanage of the St. Francis Order trooped down the fire-escape in their nightclothes shortly after 1 a. m. today as fire destroyed the $350,000 building.

Though the fire broke out in the dead of night when all were asleep, no one was killed or injured.

A party in a passing automobile discovered the fire. They hurled bricks through the windows to arouse the nuns and children. The sisters took charge of the children and directed them without panic to the fire escape and safety.

Speed Boat Fails on Initial Trip

The port engine of the Silver Eagle, high-speed boat constructed at Quincy for Paul K. Dudley, 19-year old son of a wealthy Fitchburg manufacturer, broke down today in Quincy Bay on its initial trip.

'Al' Williams to Go in Naval Reserve

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Alford J. Williams, navy speed flier who recently resigned from the service, would be given the rank of captain in the naval reserve under a bill introduced today by Senator Wagner, New York.

NAVAL TREATY PROTESTED BY ADMIRALS

Schofield and Moffett Say the Needs of United States Are Not Protected

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Further protests against the London naval treaty were heard on Capitol Hill today from members of the high command of the navy.

Rear Admiral Frank H. Schofield told the Senate foreign relations committee he did not regard the treaty as benefiting the United States; that he favored more 8-inch gun cruisers than would be permitted, and that the pact failed to maintain the 5-5 ratio with Japan.

Before the Senate naval committee, Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of aeronautics, said he had felt that the 135,000 tons of aircraft carriers provided for was not sufficient, and "wanted the government to build more carriers."

Schofield said the value of six-inch gun cruisers was greatly diminished for the United States by the lack of naval bases. The bigger eight-inchers do not need bases so near together.

He said 7 of 8 of every 10 officers favored the eight-inch guns.

FEAR 100 DEAD IN SHIP FIRE

Port Sudan, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, May 22 (AP)—The French steamer Asia, with 1500 pilgrims aboard, bound for Red Sea ports, was on fire in Jeddah harbor today, and it was feared 100 lives had been lost.

The fire proved uncontrollable and the ship was abandoned. This afternoon it was impossible to approach the vessel. The pilgrims were enroute to Mecca, Moslem holy city.

(The steamship Asia, a vessel of 3655 tons, left Marseilles April 5, and arrived at Jeddah on the 28th, remaining on the Red Sea carrying pilgrims since then.

FLAYS MOVE TO CONTROL BIRTH

Asserting flatly that members of the 160th annual convention of the American Unitarian Association do not know what they are talking about, Mrs. Daniel R. W. Murdock, 28 Pleasant st., Everett, and mother of ten children, went on record today as being utterly opposed to birth control.

"One look at my family will show my feelings on birth control," said Mrs. Murdock, "and I certainly feel sorry for those who entertain such ideas."

Mrs. Murdock's denunciation follows the adoption of Dr. Minot Simons' birth control resolution almost unanimously adopted by the Unitarian Convention here. In presenting his resolution, Dr. Simons declared recial progress and wholesome family life depended on recognition of the privilege of voluntary motherhood.

"I certainly feel sorry for people who haven't a large family like mine," continued Mrs. Murdock. "They have no idea of the joys of children and the happiness that a mother has in bringing them up."

Which Do You Prefer?—$1000 in Prizes

Marion Davies is shown here in an afternoon frock of the "gay nineties" and also in the latest 1930 creation. She will pay $500 for the 2 best letters on which style is better and hold up my dragging skirt with the other and managed to board a street car without accident; But—hurrah for the freedom of 1930!"

She will star in the "Floradora Girl" opening on June 4 at the new Pantages Theater, in Hollywood. One of the $500 prizes will be for the best letter from a man.

What is YOUR opinion on these matters?

Hollywood, May 22.

LETTERS! Letters! Letters!

Each one written in the hope of winning one of the two $500 prizes Marion Davis is offering for the two best letters discussing styles for women.

Miss Davies, who wears the fluffy, flowing costumes of the "Gay Nineties" in her new picture, "The Floradora Girl" which opens June 4 at the new Pantages Theater in Hollywood, wonders whether women will ever go back to those fashions.

Trains, corsets, long hair (with "rats" and false ringlets), narrow, high-heeled slippers—and such underwear! Girls, they starched it! Petticoats, corset covers, long gloves, enormous hats, anchored with hatpins.

Feminine and lovely and quaint, you say, looking at these elaborate creations upon the screen. Yes—but just try running for a street car or playing a game of tennis in such an outfit!

TWO $500 PRIZES

Miss Davies thinks that the present trend of fashions in women's clothes shows symptoms of a return to such styles. Are women tiring of their new freedom so soon, she wonders? Will they return, without protest, to the "modesty" of trailing dresses, long hair a million hooks and eyes and corsets to squeeze their waists until they can span with their hands?

So she is offering two prizes of $500 each, one for the best letter from a man and one for the best letter from a woman, expressing opinions upon these questions. Do YOU want the fashions of the "good old days" to return? Why? Or, on the other hand, why not?

The avalanche of letters which has descended upon Marion since her announcement of the contest last Sunday shows a wide divergence of opinion.

WRITE YOUR OPINION

Much has been said for the practical features—the comfort and healthfulness of the new modes—but little about their beauty. Women rejoice in their emancipation from tight laced, steel encasements, high collars, hair pins and long undies. Men bemoan the loss of womanly femininity and mystery.

Oddly enough, the majority of letters in the first batch have been from men.

One woman, who says she is old enough to have worn, herself, the dresses of the "gay 90's," remarks:

"I've held a baby with one arm and rocked a cradle with the other."

CURTIS PROBE NOT ENDED

Chicago, May 22 (AP)—An investigation of complaints that certain contractors sought "influence at Washington" to gain government contracts centered today around Harry K. Curtis, whose father is Vice-President of the United States.

Curtis, a Chicago lawyer, was questioned yesterday by Pat Roche, special investigator for the state's attorney, who is conducting the inquiry. He told of his dealings with a group of contractors, but declared his part had been merely that of an attorney.

There have been no charges Roche made clear, that any "pull" was ever exercised in behalf of the contractors, and Curtis said that any statements tending to place him in an improper position, were untrue.

Curtis told Roche that last November he was visited by Mike Malloy, well known about the Loop but not to be confused with Mique Malloy, the fight promoter.

Detroit Mayor Faces Recall for Shakeup

Detroit, May 22 (AP)—A citizen's committee, said to include persons who supported Mayor Charles Bowles last fall, today was ready to circulate petitions containing charges.

The committee indicated it expected to obtain the 84497 signatures necessary for a recall vote. Action followed Bowles' dismissal of Police Commissioner Harold H. Emmons.

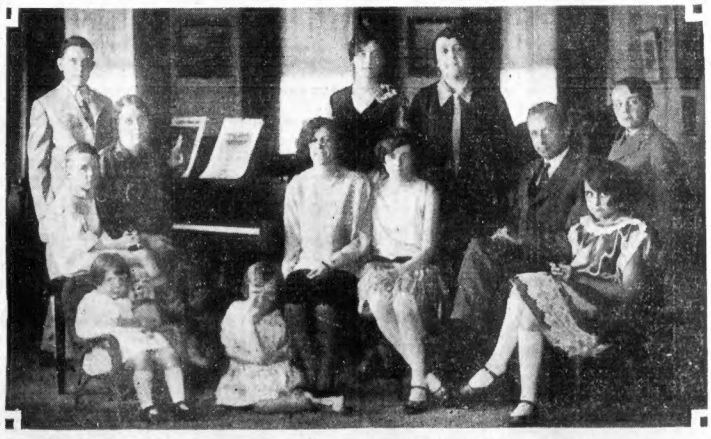
THAW LEAVES BOAT AT HAVRE

Havre, France, May 22 (AP)—Harry K. Thaw landed here today from the Ile de France on a pleasure trip which he said would take him to Paris, Switzerland and other countries on the continent. He did not attempt to land in England yesterday. There were reports that a previous ban against him, denying him admission because of having been involved in an extraditable crime, would still be enforced.

"I have no definite plans," he said. "I just felt that I needed a change. I did not want to go to England as reported. I could go if I pleased. I go to Canada every year, and is not Canada a British dominion?"

Mother of Ten Opposes Birth Control Suggestions



Seven girls, three boys, and proud of every one of them and thankful because she is mother of that many young Americans, Mrs. Daniel R. W. Murdock of 38 Pleasant st., Everett, decries suggestion of birth control as reported from the Unitarian church meeting. Here is the family. Left to right, Daniel, Jr., 17; John, 10; Charlotte, 5; Gertrude, 19; Anne, 8; Katherine, 21; Susan, 22; Grace, 16; Mrs. Murdock, Mr. Murdock; Mary, 14, and Stephen, 12. (Bachrach photo.)

8 CANADIANS IN LIST OF DOZEN NEW SAINTS

Vatican City, May 22 (AP)—An imposing array of cardinals, archbishops, bishops and abbots gathered today in the Hall of Consistory to attend the third and last consistory summoned by Pope Pius XI to pass upon the qualifications of those proposed for canonization next month.

The canonizations will raise to sainthood 12 "servants of God," as the candidates are called—two women and 10 men. Of the latter the eight Canadian martyrs, six French Jesuit priests and two lay brothers of the same order, will all be canonized together on Sunday, June 29, the feast of SS. Peter and Paul.

They will be the first saints from the North American continent to be so proclaimed by the Catholic church.

The eight Canadians, known now as "blessed" in view of their beatification five years ago, but soon to be styled saints, are the Missionaries Jean De Brebeuf, Gabriel Lalement, Isaac Jogues, Charles Garnier, Antoine Daniel, Noel Chabanel, Rene Goupil and Jean de la Lande, all slain by the Indians about 1648 near Midland, Ont.

Cosmetic 'Clinic' at Middlesex Camp

Homemakers attending the Middlesex county camp this year will have an opportunity, through the courtesy of a Boston store, to study the color effects of cosmetics.

Those in charge of the color "clinic" will attempt to turn the feminine minds toward more subtle makeup, giving each woman an opportunity to try out the colors on herself so she may choose which best suits her.

The lamp, which is under the auspices of the Middlesex county extension service, expects to accommodate 125 guests.

The party is the last of a series of benefit dances, food sales and whists held to defray expenses for the new parish in Cedar Hill, Dorchester. Many beautiful prizes have been donated.

Father Tooling has been ably assisted by the Fr. McKone Court of the Foresters.

Mayor Walker Lets His 'Tux' Obey Doctor

New York, May 22 (AP)—An order from his physician is law to Mayor James J. Walker, but he makes his own interpretation. Attending a testimonial dinner for James J. Sexton, president of the board of taxes and assessments, the mayor, who recently recovered from a physical breakdown, said:

"I promised my doctors that I would pack my evening clothes away until next winter."

So he attended the banquet in a business suit.

FOLEY FINISHES GARRETT CASE PREPARATION

Dist. Atty. William J. Foley announced today that examination of witnesses in connection with preparation of the graft case against Oliver R. Garrett is practically completed.

The last of the witnesses was expected to be examined before night and there was a possibility that a special session of the grand jury might be called although the district attorney would not admit this.

Those questioned today were J. Edward Callahan, Newton real estate dealer; John M. Murphy assessor; James A. Bower, Hingham assessor; Mary G. Lincoln, Hingham town clerk, and Wallace Elkerton, New England agent of a dairy supply concern from which the Garretts bought thousands of dollars worth of supplies.

Those to be examined later in the day were Francis Le Croix, brother of Henry La Croix, member of Garrett's squad, who was employed at their Pine Grove Farm, and Frederick Gourley, cattle dealer, who sold stock to Garrett and his wife.

Atty. Herbert Callahan said he would probably file motions tomorrow in connection with the indictment on which Garrett has already been arraigned, charging him with larceny from the city on his pension.

Mrs. Hamilton Sued as Husband Enticer

New York, May 22 (AP)—The sum of $25,000 is being sought from Mrs. Julia Hamilton, former wife of Cosmo Hamilton, English novelist and playwright, by Mme. Nina Caracciola Satar-Khan in a suit charging alienations of affections.

Mme. Satar-Khan, who was the wife of an Italian prince and a former dancer in the Russian ballet, charged that Mrs. Hamilton enticed her husband, Constantin Perzin Satar-Khan, away with promises of helping him to a better business career through her social position.

What American Readers Are Thinking About

Says Part of Blame Rests With Parents

Editor Boston American:

That letter in your paper about missing girls and reflection upon them, moves me to it. Parents do not understand always their children. Young women want to think for themselves, but parents often urge that they should think their thoughts over and over again. We young women live in a different age. We respect our parents but they should allow us to think for ourselves.

A young woman must achieve freedom from her family. She must establish her relation to the opposite sex. She must decide for a vocation, either in or without her home life. She must have an opportunity to show her own personality. She must not be a poor imitation of her mother. She must not imitate. She must learn to live her own life.

She does not need always the presence of a mother to help her pick out a new dress. She knows what she wants in style, color and general make-up. Mothers should not force their choice upon their daughters in this respect. Let them do their own selection. These are a few points that will keep girls at home, until they get homes of their own.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

I first saw reference in your paper to the increased prevalence of noise in Boston. Now this is named at the 63d annual meeting of the Otological Society, at Swampscott, as the great contributing cause for deafness. This is nothing new. When many years ago, this same society met in Boston, Dr. Clarence Blake, now dead, one of the most noted otologists of his time, urged that noise was a great factor in making people deaf. Nothing was done to lessen it at that time, though many discussed it in the newspapers, pro and con.

Since then, noises have increased. You spoke in this column, through one of your correspondents, of the grinding, banging noises of electric cars through the subway from Park st. to Massachusetts ave. I have noticed this again and again. We must agitate this subject. Boston is not quick to respond to reforms like these. We often seethe in neglects in this city and do nothing until some blast of opposition is heard against noises. Then action is taken.

Stay at Home Policy By Far the Best

Editor Boston American:

A fact is established only when it is philosophically obvious and scientifically true.

We cannot all be great philosophers or scientists. Nevertheless, we can think philosophically and scientifically on problems which concern ourselves, especially those which affect our security as individuals or as a nation.

It is a fact that a naval conference was held in London with a view to reducing naval armaments. Obviously, each nation sent a delegation to obtain the best possible concessions for that nation. It is evident that our delegation obtained the best possible concessions for this nation?

What do you think, brother? How does it strike you, sister? Take a tip from the Scotchman, stay at home and let your mind wander.

We should sit quietly at home, now and then, let our minds wander, but like the cat on a mousing expedition, stop, look and listen, and as the cat silently crouches in waiting for her prey, so our minds should be ready to grasp political or social problems, dissect them, analyze them, and bring hones a few conclusions.

Then write to our senators and congressmen. For how shall a man represent his constituency unless he knows its wishes? Then, when justice has been done, let us express our appreciation.

JAMES A. WELCH.

Foreign Students Push to the Fore

Editor Boston American:

One of the most interesting ventures in education is being shown here in Boston through the way that foreign students from all parts of the world are trying to get an education. Many of them are working their way. They are doing all sorts of jobs. They are sensitive of American opportunities and trying to grasp them.

All honor to the women who are trying in every way to smooth the path of these foreign students by getting others interested in them. The writer of this letter came in contact with a business woman who spends her off days in getting others interested in helping the young men and women from foreign lands. These students keep up their appearance. A young woman from a far-away country appeared before a business man lately, asking for some sort of position to help pay her expenses. But he turned her down because she was so well dressed, intimating that her appearance and style was against her for any job. Had she appeared in worn-out garments she might have moved the heart of this man. But foreign students like to make a good show, whether poor or rich.

No Sign of the Gulf Stream Yet

Editor Boston American:

"The Gulf stream is coming to locate near Boston and change this climate into the climate of Florida."

This was announced to illustrate one of the points in an address given before one of the meetings of the American Unitarian Association, during the past week in Boston.

If this be true, it will knock the life out of our east wind which never would be happy in the embrace of a Southern clime.

The speaker said an old sea captain told him this and he verified it somewhat by citing the antics of the Gulf stream to illustrate the radical changes in the life and thinking of today. Anyway, say what you will, Boston climate is changing. Furnace fires are running overtime this season as every one knows on account of cold spells. To me, it looks like as if the North Pole was touching us instead of Florida heat.

Skull and Bones Slows Them Down

Editor Boston American:

Since reading people's opinions about auto accidents in your letter column, may I suggest instead of the usual signs, warning of danger on the roads, a picture of skull and Bones be hung in a conspicuous place with telephone number of the nearest hospital.

This has been done at a dangerous curve on Essex st., Swampscott, over the B. & M. railroad bridge, but the picture of the skull and bones should be added here, just what we see on bottles containing poison.

Anything to frighten speeding drivers will work well at these dangerous curves.

GUESTS MARVEL AT FLAVOR OF GREEN PEAS

Hostess Tells the Secret and Creates Surprise

At a dinner recently, compliments were made about the unusual flavor of the peas which were served. One lady asked where they were bought. Upon being told that they came from the same market that she patronized, she stated that never in her dealings there had she been sold such delicious peas.

Finally the hostess told her guests that she had added sugar to the peas as they cooked. Her rule was a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt. She then went on to say that this combination of sugar and salt produced equally delicious results in the cooking of all vegetables whether canned or fresh.

Many cooks who know the value of sugar in cooking, keep a mixture of sugar and salt within reach. Some use two parts sugar to one part salt—some, equal parts. Either combination is splendid for seasoning meats and stews and also in the making of salad dressings. Most foods are [illegible] delicious and nourishing with sugar.

WAR MOTHERS PRAISED

Paris, May 22 (AP)—Ambassador Claudel for France and General John J. Pershing for the United States today voiced the sympathies of their nations to more than 200 Gold Star Mothers who are making a pilgrimage of military cemeteries where their boys are buried.

The Ambassador and the soldier who commanded the American Expeditionary Forces in France joined their tributes at public ceremonies which today provided a tender climax to the pilgrimage.

Germans Salute U. S. Gold Star Mothers

Thiacourt, France, May 22 (AP)—Gen. Otto Gessler, former minister of war in Germany, who is leading a party of former war officers on a tour of inspection of the German, French and American cemeteries, stood at attention as 23 American Gold Star Mothers today arrived at the gates of the St. Mihiel Cemetery. The Germans clicked their heels and bowed as the mothers alighted from buses.

Don Straws Again! Going to Be Hot

The first of the annual "fair and warmer" weather prophecies emanated today from the local bureau to pull Greater Boston out of the dreary doldrums of the past week.

The advancing warmth was reflected in a rise of 5 degrees at 10 o'clock today over the same hour yesterday, which boosted the mercury to 62 above at that hour today.

The weather man opines the temperature will touch the 80 mark tomorrow, its aspiration to higher ascent being curbed by promised northwest winds.

Springfield, May 22—One of the chief centers of attraction for the thousands of tourists visiting New England this year to participate in the Massachusetts Bay Tercentenary celebration is the New England Colonial village on the Eastern States Exposition grounds in Springfield. Rector Tells Butler He'll Vote Wet if Carried to Polls

The Rev. Andrew F. Underhill, rector emeritus of St. John's Episcopal Church, Northampton, an invalid, will vote wet if he has to be carried to the polls, he wrote William M. Butler, candidate for the U. S. senatorial nomination.

The letter, replying to a request for Dr. Underhill's support of the Butler candidacy, was read at a luncheon given by the executive committee of the Liberal Civic League for its recently appointed advisory committee at the Statler.

Dr. Underhill said he is so opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment, which has "destroyed the Constitution," he will vote for candidates in favor of repeal "if I have to be carried on a litter."

Contractor Shot as He Gets Into Car

New York, May 22 (AP)—As he entered his motor car to drive to work today, Albert J. Schwartzler, contractor, was shot and wounded by one or two or more assailants.

The contractor did not know how many men were in the party, which apparently waited to attack him, and could ascribe no reason for the assault except possible rivalry by other builders. He will recover.

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD

$18,705,922 TO FIGHT RUM

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Records of the Anti-Saloon League showed the Senate lobby committee today that it has been pledged future contribution of $18,705,922.

F. Scott McBride informed the senators his organization collected an average of about 70 per cent of its pledges. He said those listed ran over various periods in some cases for five or 10 years.

Senator Blaine (R.), Wisconsin, read from the records that the cost of obtaining and collecting pledges and distributing literature was 99 cents per dollar. The cost of getting pledges, he read, was 76.82 cents per dollar.

TRADE THROUGH HUB INCREASES

The port of Boston is one of the most important importing and distributing centers for Latin-American trade, according to a statement from the Latin-American section of United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

Imports through the Massachusetts customs district have shown a jump from some $50,000,000 before the war to over $72,000,000 in 1929. Moreover, whereas Boston accounted for less than 1 per cent of United States imports from Latin-America before the war, in 1929, it took 6.6 per cent of the total.

On the export side Boston's trade has multiplied five fold since before the war, and this represents only a small part of New England's manufactures, for a large part of the goods find an outlet to Latin-America through the port of New York.

3 'CON' MEN IN BATTLE; MAKE ESCAPE

Three confidence men, one of whom is believed to be the man who victimized a Roxbury woman several weeks ago with "unset diamonds," escaped today after a furious battle in the same district.

The three men accosted Mrs. Reda Marcum of Beaver st., Roxbury, in Erie st., and offered to sell her "unset diamonds" at a bargain price of $1000.

She said she had no money with her, but they told her they would be glad to go with her to her home. Mrs. Marcum took the precaution first, however, of telephoning to her son, Morris, and he told her to do nothing until he arrived.

She made an appointment with the three men, and when her son arrived pointed them out to him. The trio started to run. Marcum chased them and captured one after a battle.

Marcum marched his captives to Cheney st. garage and asked the manager to call the police. However, he could get no answer from police headquarters.

Meanwhile the three companions of the captive suddenly sprang to the garage and engaged Marcum and the manager in battle, which ended with the escape of the three.

DAILY ANTIQUE

No. 102

There has been considerable discussion of Chippendale design in this series. Perhaps because his work is more in evidence in this country than that of the Adams, Hepplewhite and other contemporaries and followers.

Today we show a typical Hepplewhite model. It is a Derby featherback chair, taken from an old New England mansion and now on exhibition at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. It dates from the last quarter of the 18th century.

The chair shows Hepplewhite's usual employment of the three-plume design to form the back. The shield back is characteristic of his work. His designs also included fern leaves and wheat ears treated in the same manner. It is supposed that the plume motive was inspired by the crest of the Prince of Wales, in view of the fact that Hepplewhite is said to have been a court carver at one period of his career. He avoided the use of cabriole and carved legs favored by Chippendale, and favored reeded and fluted straight legs, ending in spade feet such as those illustrated for chairs, tables and other furniture. He also worked much in inlays of exotic woods, and some of his designs called for lacquer with painted amorini and other figures. These, however, were less successful than the inlaid work, inasmuch as the painted designs quickly wore off.

Structurally, the Hepplewhite shield-back chair is sound, though not as rugged as the various Chippendale types. His designs were always light and elegant, leaning to the luxurious.

CANNON GIVEN VINDICATION

Dallas, Tex., May 22 (AP)—Coniata vindication for Bishop James Cannon, Jr., storm center of a quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today lacked only one final step—his re-election as chairman of the board of temperance and social service.

The strength of the temperance bishop, who was successively accused of unchristian actions in participating actively in the 1928 presidential campaign and in gambling on the stock market, was shown when the conference overruled Bishop Collins Denny, presiding officer, to extend a vote of confidence.

G. Tittlugh of Memphis, Josephus Daniels and others brought the stormy accusations.

Merrill Trainor, laboratory assistant of Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, television pioneer, was seen and heard as he explained the way in which the pictures and the sounds reached the theater. Other performers contributed to the demonstration by gesture, vocal music and instrumental selections.

And Every Single Day—more housewives are changing to INTERNATIONAL SALT

BOSTON women have certainly proved that they appreciate value. In the few weeks that the big handy 5c package of International Salt has been on sale, thousands of housewives have adopted it for steady use, have enthusiastically recommended it to friends. The reasons for this whole-hearted reception are obvious.

For the first time Boston housewives can buy for only 5c the world's best free-running salt; even-grained, crystalline, absolutely pure. They can get almost as much for 5c as they get for 10c in other free-running salts. And they find a bigger, handier package, that takes up less shelf space.

If you are one of the few Boston women who have not yet enjoyed this greater salt value, be sure to put International Salt on your grocery shopping list today. Your grocer has it.

SOCONY LEADERSHIP

And now* SOCONY LEADS AGAIN

A wonderful new service to add to the life of your car

AS A RESULT of a year of close cooperation with the leading manufacturers of motor cars, Socony announces a new lubrication service for car owners.

Eleven thousand men have been trained in 53 schools to render this service—a Certified Lubrication Service.

If you take your car today to a Socony Station displaying the special sign shown above, you can know positively that it will be lubricated right at every single point.

The cost will be no more than you have been paying for hit-or-miss lubrication service.

There are about 40 points on your car that require lubrication. The 36 popular makes of automobiles have an average of thirteen models apiece, representing the production of only the past three years.

36 cars × 13 models × 40 lubricating points = about 19,000 lubrication points which the service man must remember—as well as the proper lubricant for each.

Many cars require 7 different lubricants for different parts.

No wonder that service men cannot carry all this in their heads. No wonder, when you drive your car away from a station, you often wonder whether some points have been missed.

Working with the manufacturers, Socony engineers have developed special charts showing every lubrication point on every model of every leading make of car, and indicating just which lubricant should be used.

Special tools have been acquired to enable the service men to reach every grease cup, every joint, every single lubrication point.

Finally—in 53 schools conducted by lubrication engineers—11,000 Socony Service men have been trained to lubricate your car not only thoroughly but quickly, to save your time.

Take your car in today and have it made ready for its summer's work. Watch the chart as the service man covers each point. Note how quickly and surely he works. No guesswork, no carelessness, everything sure. That's why we call it Socony Certified Lubrication Service.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF NEW YORK

● SOCONY
LUBRICATION SERVICE

What is it?

A service performed for you by men scientifically trained in schools over a period of 16 weeks, in the expert lubrication of cars.

These men work from special charts—prepared by Socony engineers with the cooperation of the car manufacturers—showing every point to be lubricated and indicating the exact kind of lubricant to use at each point, as recommended by the car manufacturers.

They have the proper tools, they use Socony lubricants—best in the world.

What it means to you

Socony Certified Lubrication Service assures proper lubrication for your car.

The use of the chart of your own car assures you that not a single lubrication point has been missed and that the proper lubricant has been used at each point.

Where can you get it?

Socony Certified Lubrication Service is available at Socony Stations displaying the sign above. More stations will be commissioned to render this service as their operators prove they are qualified.

Before making your summer automobile trips, write to Socony Touring Service, 26 Broadway, New York City, for best routes and information on road conditions.

AIR OFFICIALS IN BOSTON ON N. E. TOUR

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

The survey committee of the New England Air Tour, winging its way around the six New England States, reached Boston on its way to New Bedford, with reports that airports along the route were lining up in good order.

Flying in a Bellanca Pacemaker cabin monoplane owned by Skyways, Inc., Col. James Gilson, tour commander; Major Luke Christopher, chairman of the contest committee of the National Aeronautic Association; A. Pendleton Tallaferro, Department of Commerce Aeronautics Branch, and Frank Jordan, representing the council, announced that they had made every stop on time.

Crocker Snow, president of Skyways, was forced to relinquish the controls at Montpelier, due to the press of business here in Boston. Lewis "Swede" Parker hopped up to Montpelier and continued the trip.

Entries to date have reached 42, and more are being received every day. This number will be pared to 20 or 25, depending on the size and types of planes entered. So far the entries include everything from gigantic Curtiss Condor and Keystone Patrician, both 18-passenger planes, to the tiny Moths, Great Lakes and Davis sport planes.

According to R. W. Bowdoin, of the New England Council, a meeting will be held in Springfield to compare notes and make final preparations. The elimination of planes from the number entered will not be done until the first of next week.

The greatest array of modern commercial aircraft ever seen in New England will await the starter's gun at Bowles airport, Springfield, on the morning of May 27.

Looking to the Future

MOTHERS today are becoming more and more concerned about the health of their children, and particularly about their foot health. Day by day they are making a point of looking for shoes that will train young, growing feet in the way they should go. And that is why so many mothers today choose Coward Shoes—because they know that Coward Shoes are scientifically designed to aid little feet to grow straight, strong, and healthy.

James S. Coward devoted his life to designing correct, comfortable shoes. Knowing that many of the foot ills of grown-ups are due to improper shoes worn in childhood, he made a particular study of the needs of children's feet and he designed shoes which he knew would train young, growing feet normally and correctly.

Watch carefully how your child stands and walks. If his ankles turn, if his toes are cramped, if he tires too easily, look to his shoes. Let one of Coward's expert fitters fit him with a pair of Coward Shoes which will correct his troubles and direct his feet to true foot-health.

THE DAILY HUBBUB

By ANTHONY SKELDING

CHINATOWN BEING MODERNIZED

There are 25 or 30 Chinese eating places in Boston's Chinatown, a new one appearing every few months. The food is pretty much the same in all of them—now standardized to American taste. At noon time they are filled with office workers eating substantial lunches at 35 to 50 cents a throw. Now and then one sees an outof-town visitor looking for mystery or peril . . . these no longer in Chinese . . . it simply isn't there any more. You eat your lunch and get out . . . Another customer back of your chair waiting for the seat. In Tyler st. there remain still a couple of the ancient places . . . not so begauded as their competitors around the corner. One is in an obscure alley, the other in a lowly basement. Here in back rooms the natives also eat, the front portion of the shops being reserved for the public. Chinamen flit in and out, now and then an elder in pigtail and sandals. The old men of the quarter are privileged to gad about and visit as they please. The chatter in the back rooms is incessant. Here you can still get the native dishes. Subgum suey, bird's nest soup, chow mein, egg foo gim getta . . . beef, all the old time gems. You get it unadorned, without the conpromise trimmings. You can even have a couple of chop sticks to juggle it with if you like.

LAUNDRYMEN'S CONFERENCE

On Monday mornings, Chinese laundrymen from the suburbs congregate in the Tyler st. quarter. There is a holiday air about. They sit on the doorsteps and chatter of trade. The younger men, in trim blue suits, look quite business-like; Americanized, if you like that adjective. Not being in on the patter, we looked about for an interpreter. We found one shortly in the form of one — Goon Sue, a young Chinaman who acts as sort of secretary (though he didn't call himself that) for the Greater Boston Association of Shirt Washers and Collar Polishers.

"What's it all about?" we asked Goon Sue.

"They come in every week to talk over business and visit friends," he said.

Mr. Goon later took us across the street to No. 19. We stepped down into a basement room where some 50 or more Chinamen were holding a meeting, a conference on business policies. We learned from Mr. Goon that the price of collar laundry was up for discussion.

"Yes, four cents was a fair price . . . but shouldn't fussy customers who wanted their collars done semi-soft pay more?"

Then there was the matter of neighborhood prices. In the North End people wouldn't pay so much, maybe at four cents they would wash their collars at home. Out in Brookline?

"Well," as Mr. Goon translated it to us, "maybe the guys could pay more."

We thanked Mr. Goon and filed out. It was indeed all so American. Incidently, Mr. Goon informed us as we left that there was talk among the trade of abolishing the old-fashioned paper laundry check and substituting for it a system of metal disks.

"No more arguments about lost checkee," said he.

CURB EXCHANGE FOR TRADE NEWS

In lower Washington st., between La Grange and Stuart sts. can be seen almost any noon hour a crowd of men and women standing about discussing the affairs of the day. They are garment workers from nearby shops. Sometimes there are a thousand or so in session. Here and there are groups in friendly debate. The prices of piece work and trade union ethics are subjects of constant attention. At times the crowds overflow to the sidewalk and the police officer has to make way for pedestrians. He informed us that on the whole he had very little trouble and that it was a very orderly congregation. Still every now and then a stranger observing the scenes asks the cop

"What's up? A fight or something like that?"

"No," he invariably replies, "just the regular noon hour meeting."

"Somehow" he added, "these strangers look disappointed when I tell them that."

Rooming House Association Urged to Refute Charges Against District

By NANCY BREWSTER

The people of the South End haven't all the money in the world but they are decent, Miss Mary Driscoll of the Boston licensing board would have the public know.

She brands as untrue and grossly false the charge that the South End is a red-light district of Boston.

Vigorous in her denunciation of the recent handing of the South End district as unquestionable in repute and activity, Miss Driscoll urged the women of the Boston Rooming House Association to [illegible] in protest against those who would hold the business of these rooming [illegible] proprietors with untrue characterizations of the houses which they conduct

"He who is so sure of himself as to say where the red-light district in Boston is doesn't know much about Boston," Miss Driscoll said, climaxing an evening's program of countless speakers and South End boosters.

Guest of the association at its fifth annual banquet at the Hotel Westminster, Miss Driscoll spoke upon the women as a larger and more powerful organization of business women who do [illegible] present [illegible] to the public on a business basis.

"You are a group of business women. And when the general public is given misinformation about the repute of the district in which you conduct your business, your business is being hurt Rise up and say such evil propaganda must stop. You may not have all the money in the world but you are decent, I know. I have worked with you and lived among you.

"Different communities must have different facilities. The South End has been grossly pictured during the last weeks in the press. Do you know where the red light district is? I don't know. You don't know. Nobody knows. Of course we have bootleggers, we have vice, we have immorality. We have had citizens and when we have had citizens we have these things But who can say that the South End is a red light district?

"Have our accusers seen our churches on Sundays when large armies swarm these edifices? At the Franklin Square House 800 young respectable women make their home. It is indeed unfair for the press, any matter who says it, to brand the South End with such insidious charges. And I wish they'd [illegible]

"I'd like to see our women organized into a more powerful group than a social [illegible] that affects you, with a representative that can look out for your interests."

BRITISH SEND TROOPS TO END SALT RAIDS

Bombay, May 22 (AP)—British troops—a contingent from Hyderabad—was sent today to the government—operated salt depot at Dharasana to prevent further raiding by Indian Nationalist volunteers.

Simultaneously Nationalist headquarters there announced that the next mass raid would take place Sunday. Hitherto only police have been depended upon to maintain order at the salt depots.

Police and troops raided the Nationalist camp at Untadi, near Dharasana today, and destroyed it. At Wadala a party of 100 raiders were arrested. Of a second party 18 were arrested but the remainder succeeded in getting away with some salt.

The British government issued a statement saying only three or four of the Nationalist volunteers injured yesterday at Dharasana were hurt seriously.

Kent Resents Mention of Anne's Name in 'Stir'—Butch Seeks Trouble

Three thousand men who had failed to "beat the rap," killers, con men and dope fiends, were crowded in this prison.

In the first chapter of "The BIG House" we meet Duncan Morgan, a good-looking young man who was sent to jail for his third "stretch." Morgan was a robber. He got away with crime for a while, but the cops were too fast for him. Next we meet Dean Ward Kent. On a wild New Year's Eve party his drunken driving results in a terrible smashup. Kent is found guilty of manslaughter, as one girl was killed, and is sent to the BIG House for seven years. He is thrown into a cell with two others and is saved by Morgan from a beating by the terrible "Butch."

CHAPTER 4

Three thousand men who had failed to "beat the rap"—killers, con men, gunmen, sluggers, absconders, embezzlers, dope fiends, burglars — that sinister other limb of society, were herded in the Big House. They were jammed into cells, crammed into workshops, crowded into messhalls

They were fed on tainted meat, beans and prison slum. Their surliness was met with curses, their grumblings with blows and their aggressiveness with solitary confinement in the cooler.

Tower guards nervously paced the prison parapets, always on hair-trigger to release their hellish machine gun bullets, and guards who were not allowed to carry firearms, used their bludgeons at the flimsiest provocation.

The warden was openly anxious. Sometimes the general sentiment of the prisoners, who were caged like menagerie animals, manifested itself in a pandemonium of mass yelling, which the guards could not quiet.

Here in the Big House the prison code was peremptory and omnipotent. It was more zealously observed among the prisoners than was the law by which so-called decent people live. It was the code of mutual protection. Don't squeal! Don't stool!

Swift Death
From the Double-Cross

It was the code of the underworld, where the double-cross inspired a swift and violent death. In prison it was the prisoner against the world. And in prison, as in every other walk of life, there were traitors.

Kent, who had had his first lesson the night he entered prison and who still felt the dull throb in his jaw where Butch's fist had landed, quickly learned the credo in a hundred little ways. He had learned, too, that there was an undercurrent of unrest, which pre-shadowed violence. The prisoners were becoming more bold and brazen every day.

Morgan, who singled Kent out always when they were in the narrow recreation yard, sought by careful questioning to draw from him the name of the girl in the picture. He had never returned the photograph to Kent, but always had kept it close to his heart.

Kent had become angered when he found the picture gone the morning after Butch had silenced him, but he dared say nothing. And Morgan admired him the less for it—a man who would wrangle and turn fink over the theft of his cigarettes, but who choked down when the picture of his girl was stolen!

Morgan surmised that she must be his girl

"Don't take it so hard, Kid—" he began sympathetically.

Kent flared up

"Don't take it so hard! Hell! This sort of thing might be all right for—or, Butch or men like him. But for me it's different. I never was meant for such treatment and such atmosphere."

Not So Bad
Morgan Comforts Kent

"Oh, Butch and the rest aren't so bad. It never meant anything for Butch to knock off a human life. But he's a good guy—most killers are regular guys. Nothing pussy-foot or underhand about them.'

"You can't tell me on Butch or—well, he's not my kind. Anyway, he bullies me from morning until night."

"I guess if you was walking along with your gal on the outside you wouldn't give me and Butch a knock down, eh?"

"Say, damn you, don't bring Anne's name in this!" shouted Kent.

"Anne — Anne — who's Anne?" Morgan was hopeful

"Anne Marlowe—my fiancee—and don't talk about her—I tell you, don't talk about her in a place like this—I won't have it—"

Kent was excited. Tears welled in his eyes. His body shook with emotion. Morgan was sympathetic!

"There, there, Kid, I guess I know how you feel. You're right—Anne Marlowe should not be brought into any discussion here. Not Anne Marlowe."

He pronounced the name with lingering deliciousness. Kent glanced at him suspici-

FITZGERALD ATTACKS VOTE DISTRICT BILL BEFORE THE SENATE

G. O. P. TRICK CHARGED BY EX-MAYOR

Issues Warning to Democrats at Testimonial Banquet to Commissioner O'Hare

Democrats of Massachusetts were warned last night by former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald that the State Senate will today consider a bill providing for distribution of voting districts that if passed, will materially benefit the Republican party.

Fitzgerald issued the warning before more than 600 persons at a testimonial banquet to William O'Hare, recently appointed by Mayor Curley to the post of commissioner of penal institutions.

If the bill, which provides for a change in the State Constitution granting to the Legislature jurisdiction over the division of voting districts, is passed, ex-Mayor Fitzgerald promised to inform the public thereon even when he considers it to be a political trick.

TRIBUTE TO O'HARE

Other speakers were Thomas F. Burns, toastmaster; Rev. Joseph W. McMahon, of St. Mary's Church Charlestown; Rev. James H. Phelan, Church of the Immaculate Conception, Marlboro; Peter Tague representing Mayor Curley, Dr. Jeremiah Burke, superintendent of schools; James H. Holland, Senator Joseph P. Buckley and Howard V. Redgate.

Glowing tribute was paid the guest of honor by the speakers, who characterized him as a man of unusual integrity and as one who had carried the ideals of his youth into later life.

LAUDS CURLEY

Commissioner O'Hare was presented with a certificate of membership in an exclusive country club while Mrs. O'Hare received a large gift of flowers.

In response Commissioner O'Hare paid tribute to Mayor Curley in glowing terms, speaking of his own work, the new commissioner stated that he will act on the assumption that all men are but grown boys and he will strongly defend this attitude during service to the city in his present capacity.

GIRLS AND BOYS IN TUFTS VOTE FOR SHORTS

50 P. C. of Feminine Students in Psychology Class for Plan Expect to Change Style Soon

The boys and girls of Tufts College were won over to shorts today. Before many more hours, knees dimpled and nobody, pink and sallow, soft and scarred, will be out in the breezes of Medford.

After an earnest discussion, 61 per cent of the male members of the applied psychology class at Tufts, and 50 per cent of the girl members—or an average percentage of 565 of the entire class—voted for shorts.

Not only did they vote in favor of shorts, but they voted to wear them.

BAN ON SHORTS

This, despite the fate of Robert Hull, president of the Tufts freshman class, who, last week emerged from the dormitory, a pioneer of shorts, but who scuttled back to his shelter some time later minus even the shorts, whose shreds were in the hands of triumphant college mates.

Dr. Robert Chenault Givler, head of the department of psychology, was in charge of the applied psychology class when the discussion was held and the vote taken.

The subject was brought up by Thomas Hersey of the class of '32, while a series of sales talks were being analyzed.

Hersey presented arguments both for and against shorts, citing the advantages and disadvantages.

The class agreed that the adoption of shorts by the public is a matter of getting used to them, the same as bobbed hair, soft collars plus fours and short skirts.

Shorts, however, did not fare so well at Brookline High School and Lynn Classical High School, where authorities ruled against them and warned that any student wearing shorts would be sent home.

One Brookline High School youth Dexter Goulston, did wear them to school but his high moment, based on a bet of $1 with school boys, was short-lived. He was ordered home to don trousers, which he did.

Rich 'Gob' and His Sister

Eleanor Robinson of Malden, sister of T. Donald Robinson, millionaire "gob," who hires expensive suites for his parties while on shore leave, says it is just like him to live as he pleases when ashore. Inset shows the wealthy young man, who joined the navy for his health and the training, in his official uniform.

MILLIONAIRE 'GOB' SOON TO BE PROMOTED

Rich Malden Boy to Become Midshipman and Sail for Germany on Battleship

T. Donald Robinson, Malden's millionaire "gob" who astounds the admirals by hiring expensive suites and "throwing" large parties while on shore leave, is shortly to become a midshipman and sail for Germany on one of Uncle Samuel's large battleships.

This was revealed today at his home in Mountain ave. by his sister, Eleanor, who read with little surprise of Don's big doings in New York after his ship, U. S. S. Arkansas, docked at Brooklyn.

Don is the son of Henry M. Robinson, one of the largest wholesale florists in the country. His dad sends him some cash to tide him over the lean Navy paydays, and he also has the privilege of signing dinner checks and the like—quite a universal charge account.

It is just like Don to live in accordance with his means when he is ashore," his sister said. Regarding his boasted ability to dust deck-swabbing by keeping in right with the officers through the medium of floral gifts to their mothers and wives, she had no comment.

Robinson joined the navy in September, 1926, for the training and his health. Whether he will sign up for another enlistment in September, when his four-year term expires, he has not decided.

CAMBRIDGE GIRL WINS MILLION

With reports of more than $1,000,000 as a settlement, Mrs. Constance Bridges Jones, former Cambridge girl, was granted a divorce today from Owen Barton Jones, Chicago millionaire, according to despatches from Waukegan, Ill.

Mrs. Jones is a granddaughter of the late Gen. Benjamin Bridges, one-time warden of State Prison, Charlestown. Jones is a sportsman, leader in aviation and reputed worth $12,000,000.

They were married in 1917 after a Harvard-Radcliffe romance. The suit was uncontested, and the decree was granted on the grounds of desertion. Attorneys for Mrs. Jones said a financial settlement was made out of court. Various reports set the figure at $1,000,000.

Chinaman Missing as People Clamor for Their Shirts

The Chelsea police had a missing person problem on their hands today—not to mention a stream of shirtless and collarless citizens rooting for a quick solution.

Their linens were locked up in a Broadway laundry, and investigation proved the new owner missing, a Chinese, 65 years old, name unknown.

He was last seen May 11 by Mrs. Annie Zinney, who lives overhead. She said he drove off in an auto with three other men.

DEATH TAKES DR. PUTNAM

Dr. Willard A. Putnam, 64, prominent Cambridge physician, died at his home at 16 Garfield st. early today from septic poisoning contracted when he performed an operation at the Cambridge City Hospital, several weeks ago.

Dr. Putnam was on the staff of the Cambridge City Hospital and the Holy Ghost Hospital. He was born in New Salem, N. H., and graduated from the academy there in 1883. Later he attended Amherst, receiving a degree in 1887. Four years later he graduated from Harvard Medical School.

He is survived by his wife, Lillian M. Putnam, two daughters, Marion and Elizabeth, and one son, Willard S. Putnam. Funeral services will be held at the First Unitarian Church in Cambridge tomorrow morning. Interment will be in New Salem.

Meat Dealers Hear Talks on Industry

Four hundred independent retail meat dealers of Greater Boston attended their fifth annual banquet at Hotel Somerset last night.

The discussion took the form of a comparison between the chain store development and the development of independent meat retailers.

The invited speakers of the evening were former Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell and H. James Seidman, market analyst for the Hearst papers in Boston.

O'Connell stressed the importance of the independent retail food dealer as the nerve center of the economic and social development of the country and lauded their position as pioneers in America's economic life.

LONG OPPOSES APPEAL BOARD

A proposal for a new board of tax appeal was vigorously opposed today at a legislative hearing by Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation Henry F. Long.

Such a move, he said, is not warranted and there is a unanimous opinion that a board as proposed would save the state money. He said the expense would be in excess of $100,000. He pointed out that the taxpayers now have plenty of opportunity to appeal.

Lawyers and public accountants, he declared are the only ones who have favored the change.

Creation of the board was favored by Representative Joseph E. Perry of Belmont and J. Sidney Stone, members of the special commission which studied tax law revision, and Philip Nichols of Newton.

WAR VETERAN SEEKING COMPENSATION ON TRIAL AS DESERTER

CAUSED HIS OWN ARREST BY LETTER

Pleads He Fled From Army Hospital While Sick From Wounds

With but one prosecution witness against him, Francis M. Masterson of Putnam st., Winthrop, World War veteran, stood trial today before a military court at the Army Base, charged with wartime desertion while a member of Co. C, 101st Infantry.

The lone prosecution witness was Capt. A. L. Haggart, attached to the Coast Artillery at Fort Banks Winthrop

He testified to Masterson's calling at Fort Banks, and asking information as to how he could obtain an honorable discharge from the Army, in which he has not served since his escape from a debarkation hospital in New York 11 years ago.

Capt. Haggart denied he had attempted to bully Masterson in making an affidavit that he was a deserter.

HIS PLEA DENIED

Defence counsel filed a plea in abatement, requesting that the desertion charge be changed to absence without leave which would come under the statute of limitations and thus be out of the court martial's jurisdiction. The plea was denied.

Each army officers composed the military court.

On the outcome of the trial depends the veteran's right to compensation and war time insurance.

Two officers were originally named as the trial board. But a peremptory challenge by Harold Smith, civilian counsel for the defendant, Capt. Walton W. Lee, U. S. Cavalry, left the board.

Capt. R. A. Hunt of the Judge Advocate's department, was trial judge and constituted Capt. Bond L. Green of the Field Artillery as associate defense counsel.

BARRED AS DESERTER

As an alleged deserter Masterson is barred from benefits of compensation, insurance and honorable discharge from the army.

Masterson, in February, 1919, wrote to war time officials asking what to do to get an honorable discharge.

He explained he was prevented from getting a discharge because in April, 1919, while men were being sent from war zones he was sent away from Debarkation Hospital No. 4 in New York, and after was classed as a deserter.

An investigation followed and he was arrested at Fort Banks, Winthrop, and ordered to pay Veteran organizations came to Masterson's defense.

Masterson, now the father of two children, was in hospitals for shell shock and gas at Camp Devens and was shipped to the debarkation hospital.

He was clad only in pajamas and slippers when he fled this hospital and made his way to Boston, arriving after his mother had died. On returning to the debarkation hospital later, he discovered it was too

Cambridge Woman Robbed by Snatcher

A youthful bag snatcher operating from a parked car, accosted Miss Frances A. Maitland of Lake View ave., Cambridge, as she was nearing her home, at 10:45 last night, grabbed her handbag containing $15 and fled.

The woman described the man as a boy five feet, 10 inches tall, and under. He wore a gray cap.

REGAINS BERTH ON FIRE FORCE

Nobody is more tickled today than three Kelly children in South Boston, the kiddies of Michael Kelly, reinstated to the fire department after a long fight in the Legislature.

The children, Margaret, eight, Harry, seven, and Joseph, five, were the first to cheer the parent when the fight of Representative James J. Donovan of South Boston to have Kelly reinstated after four years on the docks.

Her fight was the kind he was forced to take in order to keep the little family together. Neighbors in South Boston, many in official charges, set him to it.

The charges failed, as he knew they would, and a band of neighbors called Governor Allen's office and Commissioner Dana and Mayor Curley on the job.

Result: Kelly was given his job back and a measure was passed by the Legislature permitting the mayors to be asked in the future.

Two days was added to Kelly's service by Metropolitan Fire Commissioner Dana, Dana's action in restoring Kelly's status in the department fire men's pensions.

DO YOU FAVOR THE STYLES OF THE GAY NINETIES OR THOSE OF TODAY?

MISS DAVIES GIVES $1000 IN PRIZES

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, MAY 22—Is the world interested in a discussion of styles? So much interested that even our movies have a serious rival. When Marion Davies casually remarked in conversation that she was willing to offer two prizes, one of $500 for the best letter written by a man and $500 for the best letter written by a woman on a discussion of whether the long skirts and tightly corseted figure of the "Gay Nineties" is preferable to the present day short skirts, she started something.

Letters are pouring in from all over the country and if you think the men haven't ideas on the subject you should see the letters that are coming from them. The world is taking the new long skirts seriously when tennis players at Auteuil appeared on the courts with skirts worn from two to three inches longer than last year.

Louella Parsons

The sport clothes worn by Miss Davies in "The Floradora Girl" are ankle length and who knows but next year we shall see our tennis champions dashing about the courts in these long skirts and swimming in long skirted bathing suits.

This is an interesting discussion, so you better get busy. The more letters, the merrier. Do you like the present day styles or the fashions of the gay nineties? Send your letter, to the new Paramount Theater, 6233 Hollywood boulevard.

RUTH CHATTERTON just had to get back to work. Letters, telephones, telegrams and personal calls came to her home in Beverly Hills in such large numbers that she felt if the world was that interested she'd better get from her bed and go to the Paramount studios. She is at Paramount now discussing with the powers that be her next picture, "The Better Wife," based on a magazine story by Gouverneur Morris. Dorothy Arzner who did so well by her in "Sarah and Son" will direct Ruth Chatterton. And guess who will be her co-starring partner? None other than Clive Brook. The wedding rings from favorites of the women.

JOSEPH SCHENCK said yesterday when I chatted with him that Baby Peggy will not have to repeat first week for at least a week after one of her wedding days. Peggy is in Peking rehearsing, "Reaching for the Moon" will go into production June 15. Helen Kane, the girl who sang "She's My Weakness Now," has been signed for a part. Jack Whiting has been borrowed from First National for Bebe's leading man. Mr. Schenck has high hopes for the Lewis picture. In fact he brought it up out of it that when Irving Berlin was in town he would go to New York and put it on the stage first he was satisfied by the personality Joseph who has a way of getting what he wants.

BORIS KENYON has been missing from our midst for the last month. It's rumored around that her sister's husband was seriously ill so she and her mother went on a brief trip to New York, but not before he passed on. Milton Sills who is being kept busy at the Fox Studio was unable to accompany his wife. Doris has had sort of a run of bad luck. She was cast for the leading lady in "The Cave Man and when George Bancroft developed a bulge in and did not go on with the picture naturally "The Cave Man" was abandoned.

EDNA MAY OLIVER, splendid stage actress and character woman has been signed by R. K. O. She played the old woman in "Show Boat" and was one of the reasons for the success of the play. Maybe next he will be playing a brother.

In Good Old Floradora Days

A JOHN HELD, JR., ENGRAVING

"All THERE!" was the rather fresh but extremely popular greeting of the day in the gay 90's. This stage door engraving was made by the celebrated artist, John Held, Jr., for "The Floradora Girl," Marion Davies' latest all-talking, singing picture.

'THE FLORODORA GIRL' DUE ON HUB SCREEN SOON

Marion Davies' latest all talking and singing picture, "The Floradora Girl," has been finished and soon will be seen at leading motion picture theaters throughout the country. A remarkably amusing, entertaining story of the days of the gay 90s, "The Floradora Girl" deals with the romance of the last member of the famous Sextette in land a millionaire husband. This particular member of the Sextette, Daisy by name, is the most beautiful of them all, and eventually she is won by the greatest catch in town, Daisy, of course, is portrayed by Miss Davies.

Looking back into the days of the gay '90s seems to be the vogue at the present time. These were the days when that newfangled contraption, sometimes called the automobile was known as a "horseless carriage," to the driver of which all kids yelled "Get a horse!" when the girls had enormous mutton-leg sleeves on their dresses which trailed upon the ground, and wore ostrich feathers on a grand scale.

All of these days, accompanied by the popular songs of that time, together with some new ones, are reproduced in "The Floradora Girl," and make it a most amusing and entertaining picture.

"The Floradora Girl" has been elaborately staged. The story, of course, is laid in New York and every scene is faithfully reproduced. There is one exception. The theater, now only a memory, scenes of those days along Broadway and the Bowery, at Belmont Park, at Coney Island and other places where the belles and beaux of the day ruled their time away. One sequence in "The Floradora Girl" is laid in the Bowery, where the celebrated Floradora Sextette sing the immortal number, "Tell Me, Pretty Maiden."

A splendid cast was assembled by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Cosmopolitan Productions to support Miss Davies in "The Floradora Girl." Playing opposite the star is Lawrence Gray, whose acting and singing in Miss Davies' former picture, "Marianne," are so well remembered. Also included in the cast are Walter Catlett, Louis John Bartels, Elsa Cavo, Joe Brandy, Vivian Oakland, Claud Allister, Sam Hardy, Nance O'Neil and others.

Mutual Choruses Not To Travel With Show

By the arrangement recently entered into between I. H. Herk, president of the Mutual Burlesque Association, and William Morris, booking agent, each of the 40 Mutual shows will employ at least two acts for the entire season, in addition to their regular rosters of burlesque comedians, singers and dancers and chorus girls. It has been announced by Mr. Herk, the choruses will not travel, each city enhanced in the Mutual circuit having its own permanently located group of "merry-merries."

BARROWS TO GO WEST AS DELEGATE

Theatrical folk and a host of friends are interested in the trip which Thad C. Barrows, Boston's leading motion picture projectionist, will make to the West Coast. As president of the Boston Moving Picture Projectionists for the past 14 years, he will be a delegate to the convention of the national union, to be held in Los Angeles next month. While in California he will attend the meeting of the Projection Advisory Council, of which he is president, as elected international president, in Hollywood on June 5.

Thad C. Barrows

Mr. Barrows, who has been chief projectionist at the Metropolitan since it opened is one of the pioneers in his field. He started with the Howard Moving Picture Co., 23 years ago, when there were only a few picture theaters. When the Park opened, in 1914, as the first of the de luxe houses he was called to take charge of its projection booth, remaining there for ten years.

He was one of the organizers and charter members of the projectionists' union in 1910. For the past two or three years he has devoted considerable attention to the Projection Advisory Council, which does propaganda work and creates good will. How essential that is Mr. Barrows is eager to tell the one who comes into his booth, where he has a great variety of equipment, headed by six men.

The public doesn't realize the intricacy of the projection according to Barrows, until something goes wrong, when it wants to know why. Everything right, all the time the men in the booth are busy to prevent things from going wrong.

FOUGHT MANY HANDICAPS IN CAREER

Abrasha Haitowitsch, Russian violinist who will play a joint program with the Boston pianist, Heinrich Gebhard, at Copley-Plaza Ballroom on Wednesday evening, May 28, is a rare example of the triumph of spirit over material difficulty.

Losing his sight as the result of a fall in childhood, he amused himself with a violin and discovered an intense passion for music. After a preliminary period of training, he was admitted to the Petrograd Conservatory, being graduated subsequently with highest honors. Tours of Russia, other European countries and America, followed.

Haitowitsch has a large repertory, and people have often expressed wonderment as to how he could learn it with his handicap. The answer lies in the technique which the violinist worked out for memorizing scores. He has adapted the Braille system especially to his own musical needs, and as a result he can read a violin score with the same ease with which the blind read a book in the Braille system.

CHELSEA MAN WINS PRIZE

S. S. Eisenberg of Chelsea, widely known architect and engineer, was announced the winner of the first prize of $10 in the recent 'Spring Jubilee' poets' contest of the Fenway Theater. The second prize was won by Jon. Gary of Boston. In making the announcement, Manager J. B. Harrison of the theater expresses, through the Boston Evening American, his thanks for the interest and generous spirit of the pa. ons of the theater.

The winning poem follows

Fields are carpeted with flowers,
Woods are verdant leafy bowers,
Meadow larks trill in the blue,
Trout brooks flash with azure hue
In blossoms honey bees are whirring,
The earth awakes, all roots are stirring,
All nature speaks in every thing,
It is the Jubilee of Spring.

REVERE BEACH OPENS WITH NEW THRILLS

Revere Beach, often called the playground of New England, will start its 1930 season on Saturday night. There will be the usual ceremonies that go with such things, the main item of celebration being a big fireworks display arranged by the amusement division of the Revere Chamber of Commerce.

There are but few seaside resorts in the country that draw greater crowds than Revere Beach; there are few, if any, that can match it in popular items of interest.

Many new attractions, including several new shows and rides, have been assembled during the winter months and will be ready for Saturday night. Leaping Lena, Loop-the-Loop, Laff in the Dark and the Waltzer are some of the new rides, each built for the purpose of providing fun and thrills.

The new shows includes Jungo, the Cannibal Girl, Clown House, Ken Cotes' Boxe Animals and Mexican Congo Village are also in addition to the four roller coasters and other attractions which go to make up the mile of amusements for which Revere Beach is best known.

MR. BOSTON

—by JACK CONWAY

THERE WAS much activity in Alex MacLean's office at the Boston Garden when Mr. Boston dropped in to get the inside angle on the Crosscup-Pishon Post's show on next Tuesday night.

The usual quiet matchmaker of the Garden was answering calls over a battery of telephones, while members of the Legion's committee stepped into the room with reports as to the progress of the ticket sale.

Jack Conway

MacLean pressed Johnny Mealey into service to take charge of the dangerous telephone calls.

"This is the fourth Crosscup-Pishon Post show I have been connected with as matchmaker," said MacLean. "And, other than the Sharkey-Maloney bout, none of them created so much interest.

"Sharkey and Maloney drew $36,000 at Braves Field which is still the record for gate receipts for boxing in Boston. Tiger Flowers and Ray Neumann netted $18,000 while Joe Simonich and Tommy Freeman drew $15,000.

"The Finnegan-Routis bout, which opened the Boston Garden under the direction of Eddie Mack, drew $10,000.

"The Legion committee tell me that Governor Allen, Mayor Curley and other civic and business leaders have purchased bonds entitling them to choice seats for the show next Tuesday night. I expect the gate to run well over $10,000.

"We are putting on an even six card Jimmy Slattery, world's light heavyweight champion, is getting $7500 while Pete Latzo will pull down $5000.

"Leo Pantaleo will receive $3500, while Chuck Burns will get $3000. The preliminary card will also be costly."

Legion Features for Show at Garden

Mr. Boston asked MacLean if any special Legion features were planned as a part of the Crosscup-Pishon show Tuesday night.

"There will be numerous special features answered MacLean. "They will give color to the situation The Legion's committee tells me that there will be military features and possibly a battle royal."

"Sorry Jimmy Doolittle won't be able to fly over the ring at the Garden like he did over the ring at Braves Field," said Mr. Boston. "That bus sure did give us a thrill. He must have come within six feet of the top rope of the ring at Braves Field."

"I look for Jimmy Slattery and Steve Latzo to furnish the big thrills of Tuesday's night show," chirped MacLean. "The bout between Leo Pantaleo and Chuck Burns should also be a hummer."

"The latter boys have always displayed plenty of spirit in putting their shows across," said Mr. Boston. "George C. Newell and Paul Hines had set the pace at the time of the Sharkey-Maloney match and other members of the post have since been keeping up with the work of those pioneers."

Col. McKirdy Promises Some Red Hot Action

Mr. Boston collided with Col Bob McKirdy on Washington st.

"I'm going to save a couple of seats down near the ring at the Arena for you tomorrow night," said the Colonel. "I have billed a great action show and don't want you to miss it.

"Harry Allen and Willie Oster will mix it out in one 10, while in another Bob Jasse and Tony Rhuceo will trade broadsides. I have three two bouts supported by a strong preliminary card. The preliminary battlers are all promising youngsters and don't know what it is to stall."

"Bobby Goldman, on request of Jack Sharkey," said Mr. Boston, "is going to bet $50 on Schoolboy to win. Sharkey has agreed to pay Goldman's loss if Herr loses. Sharkey has lost when Goldman has bet on him. Jack had Goldman bet on Loughran and the latter was stifled. He also had him place a small bet on Scott. Now he wants him to hoodoo Schmeling.

"Schoolboy and college baseball nines are getting ready for their most important games. What the youngsters lack in baseball finish they make up for by their rare enthusiasm."

W. G. A. CHAMP FACES HARD TEST TODAY

W. G. A. CHAMPIONSHIPS
Third Round

Mrs. F. H. Baker, Jr., Oakley vs. Mrs. F. C Stone, Belmont Spring
Mrs. D. M. Belcher, Wianno vs. Mrs. Harry Peterson, Winchester.
Miss Dorothy Richards, Weston vs. Mrs. H. F. Prunaret, Jr., Charles River
Mrs. W. J. Hulnan, Oakley vs. Miss Dorothy Hunter, Albemarle.

By BILL GRIMES

With the original field of 104 Women's Golf Association of Boston championship contenders reduced to eight, the quarterfinals will be played today at the Salem Country Club.

In the first test the law of averages was made to play a part, as it showed the cream to rise to the top in the second and third rounds as the best players in the event have so far been left in the running. The purpose of the law is to bring the best players together as the field is cut down, thereby completely disorganizing the old system of drawing for opponents.

Bill Grimes

The purpose of the law is to bring the best players together as the field is cut down, thereby completely disorganizing the old system of drawing for opponents.

The upset half of the second round, as it developed, was the defeat of Miss Ruth Fairchild and Miss Virginia Bird, both of whom were seeded in the lower half, in the first round, upset the plans.

Miss Dorothy Richards is meeting Mrs. Fairchild's position, while Mrs. W. J. Hulnan has been pitted against Mrs. Belcher.

Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Belcher are both expected to weather the quarter-finals.

Mrs. Baker Faces Hard Test Today

The play through champion and defending Miss F. C. Stone of Belmont Spring one of the three players remaining who have held the W. G. A. title.

Miss Stone has been playing in top-notch form in this championship and unless the breaks are against her, she will force the defending champion to extend herself.

Miss Belcher will have a real battle on her hands when Mrs. Harry Peterson is opponent. Both are at the peak of the game for one as, at any rate, defeated two of the best women players in the event, Miss F. T. Steward of Baltusrol and Mrs. Maynard Cutler of Essex County Country Club, respectively.

Miss Dorothy Richards, either experience in the opening in the quarter-final holes of both of her matches.

In the first match she was pooring to the turn but finally won on the home green. Against Miss Gene English she went out in 43 and was four up but was unable to end the match before one of a total of 6 in until she reached the 17th green.

Of the four matches listed for today the feature one will be played by Miss Dorothy Richards of Weston and Miss H. F. Prunaret, Jr. of Charles River.

Miss Richards is playing in the draw the success of Miss Richards is a surprise but the truth of the matter is that the former holder of the women's Ohio State champion ship, is the most finished golfer in the field.

She has a natural swing, is long off the tees and, though the fairgreens, pull with noticeable confidence and possesses an ideal temperament for championship competition.

Mrs. Prunaret Will Put Up Real Battle

Miss Richards, after eliminating Miss Ruth Batchelder, one of the four players who were seeded, 4 and 2, but Miss Rosamond Vahey of Belmont Spring out of the fight in the second round.

It is unfortunate that Mrs. H. F. Prunaret, Jr., is not in better physical condition. The Charles River champion is over-golfed. She acts and looks tired after the strenuous siege of golf she has been through this spring.

Had Mrs. Prunaret been at the top of her game, she would never have been carried to the home green by Miss Hilda Williams and would have ended her match with Miss Sylvia Benson long before they reached the 17th.

SCRAPPY TRIO OF SOMERVILLE HIGH PLAYERS

Donald Wells, catcher

Fred Bettencourt, right field

Ed Corbett, short stop

Somerville high has always been represented by fine baseball teams and this season's nine is no exception. Somerville has furnished the big leagues with two outstanding players. One is Danny Mc Farlan, star catcher of the Giants.

SOMERVILLE NINE IMPROVES

Somerville high's ball team, which started off with a bang, but later became ailing, spilled its record to four games and one tie, two of which were scored in the lower half, in the first round, upset the plans.

The Somerville team has been performing in fine style of late and is able to defeat some very good nine MacPhaul, Jimmy Murphy, Al Hamilton and Lou Campbell keep the team moving in fine style and should.

This week Somerville has had no games but will be represented in the play-by-play rounds of golf. Rogers Peet has been putting on a fine form and the other members have not been able to perform well.

In the game with Medford, however, Keefe held the heavy hitting Blue and White nine to get scattered hits. Somerville lost the contest but Keefe's return to form marks a step forward for Pat's team.

Dan Lynch and Russ Cross are other pitchers of the Somerville squad who can take the helm in the secondary games of the schedule and with Keefe going well the team has a good one-two staff.

GRIMES IS DRIVEN FROM BOX

By JOE CASHMAN

Facing excellent pitching and getting very poor flinging, the Braves were a cramped, 12 to 1 by the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers in the opening game of their lengthy home stay at the Wigwam.

Dazzy Vance, on the mound for the Robins, was in rare form and the Tribe never had a chance in the game until it was a done runs behind. Neither Burleigh Grimes nor Johnny Cooney were needed to the ball for the pitched assignment with the pay-off going to the winning side.

Grimes settled down after allowing four runs in the first inning and pitched fair ball for the next four frames, but both his hurling and fielding went to pot in the sixth and he retired only after four more tallies and drew the spit-baller to cover.

Johnny Cooney, making his first appearance of the season, took up the burden in the seventh and kept the runners in check.

The four Dodger runners to bow were kept on the figuring as they looked helpless at the bat and were easy in the field making no error.

Joe Cashman

Braves Get 10 Hits off Vance but Score Only Once

They did make 10 hits off Vance but most of these came with two out and they never made more than one in an inning, except in the eighth when Dazzy let up and Richberg, Maranville and Sisler singled in succession to manufacture the lone native run.

Freddie Maguire was the three out of four and Rabbit Maranville with two out of four were the only Tribesmen to make more than one safety. Walter Berger made a single, but he fanned twice.

The Robins gave Vance perfect support and but the ball hard all afternoon, making a total of 15 safeties, including two doubles and a home run.

Grimes started off well fanning Frederick, but Gilbert singled, Herman walked, Wright singled and Bissonette hit a homer into the right-field stands and the Robbins were found runs in front.

Robins Chalk Up a Dozen Runs

Grimes put himself in a hole in the sixth with a bad throw. With one down, he walked Bressler and in trying to make a double play following Flowers' tap to the box, he threw wild and both runners were safe.

DeBerry followed with a single which scored Bressler, and Vance came through with another single to send Flowers home.

Frederick walked and Gilbert forced him, but Maguire threw wild trying to complete a double play and DeBerry and Vance counted.

The first three batters to face Cooney singled for one run. Flowers forced Bressler at third but DeBerry and Vance each doubled and Frederick came through with a sacrifice and the visitors had an even dozen runs.

Diamond Pick-Ups

Judge Fuchs, Tribal boss, announced the purchase of Charles "Buster" Statham, third baseman on the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League in exchange for Gene Robertson, secured via the waiver route from the Yanks last season, and a cash consideration.

A little more punch will make the Braves a dangerous ball club and Chatham should strengthen the team's attack considerably, in the opinion of the owner.

The newcomer, who is expected to arrive in about a week, hit for .336 at Pueblo in the Western League early last season and finished up with a mark of .312 at Portland. To date this season he has hit .315.

Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Dodgers isn't dreaming about any pennants just because his club is in first place.

"I've got a good club," says Robbie, "but don't forget that many teams in the league are badly crippled just now. We will find the going much harder than our rivals regain full strength. I am hopeful of staying in front, but I refuse to make any predictions about the outcome of the race at this time."

LYNN WINS IN N. E. LEAGUE OPENER

Six teams started on their way for the New England League flag yesterday and the competition was keen in all of the games.

Lynn, with Tom Whelan at the helm, defeated their old rivals, Salem, at the Lynn Stadium, 7 to 6.

Lewiston, with Slattery as manager, took Dick Rudolph's aggregation into camp at Portland, 8 to 6.

At Lynn, Mayor J. Fred Manning threw out the first ball and Claude Davidson, president of the league, was an interested spectator at the game.

In the game at Lynn, the home club had to come from behind twice to even the count, but Salem pushed out three runs in the ninth, and it looked like curtains for Tom Whelan's nine.

Bernie McHugh, first baiter for Lynn, banged out a double, but the next two batters died, and it looked all over, as Chilli Hardin had been going great guns.

Sumner, late of the Pittsfield team, reached on Kulacki's error, McHugh scoring. McCarron then doubled, sending in the tieing run. McHugh also opened up the 11th with a single. Hickey attempted to sacrifice, the ball getting away from Riordan going for a hit, McHugh moving up.

Farrara bunted and Cassidy picked up the ball and threw to Kulacki, who again erred, and McHugh came galloping home with the winning marker.

STATE CHAMP IN GOLF TOURNEY

An many of the leading golfers of the State will be at Oyster Harbors this week-end, playing in the three-day invitation, much interest is developing in the first tournament the Osterville club will hold under the auspices of the Massachusetts Golf Association.

Fred J. Wright, Jr., the amateur champion of the State; Jesse Guilford, the open title holder, and Sidney H. Stratton of Pine Bush, who was a finalist last year at Belmont Spring, have been the Cape champion successfully defended his crown, will play in the Oyster Harbors invitation.

Wright, Guilford and Stratton will play on Saturday afternoon and Sunday, while Bill McPhail another topnotcher in this section will be on hand to complete the foursome on Sunday.

Although Wright, Guilford, Stratton and McPhail will be the big attractions, there are a large number of lesser lights entered and F. W. Norris predicts that the Initial M. G. A. Oyster Harbors invitation will be the most successful, from the standpoint of class and attendance, ever held on the Cape.

The Oyster Harbors course is in fine condition. The fairways have all been top-dressed many times during the winter and are coming along in great style.

Mike McDonough, the greenskeeper, has a large force of men putting the course for the three-day invitation and due to the treatment he has been giving the fairways, the course will be longer than ever and it is plenty long even when it is fast.

Dartmouth Loses Star Hurdler

Hanover, N. H., May 22 Joseph E. Sawyer of New York city, Dartmouth's sophomore hurdling star, is lost to the Green team for the dual meet with Pennsylvania this Saturday. He was taken to Hitchcock Hospital today for an appendicitis operation.

Sawyer ran for Dartmouth in the Penn relays this spring and as a freshman last year he set a new indoor record for the 45-yard high hurdles. Due to the loss of Sawyer, the burden of the hurdle races will be carried this week-end by Hug Alcorn.

Norwood Wins, 16-3, From Framingham

With plenty of hitting the Norwood high nine won its first game of the Framingham series, 16 to 3, yesterday at Norwood, getting a run for every hit.

They will clash again Saturday at Framingham. Silverman poled out the longest clout for Norwood, a homer.

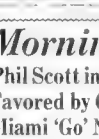
Phil Scott in Offing Favored by Commission Miami 'Go' Not Decisive

By Damon Runyon

Old Phil, the Fainter, otherwise P. Suffling Scott, of England, has weighed in with a challenge to the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling fight, filing same with the New York Athletic Commission.

I note a disposition on the part of some of my contemporaries to dismiss this challenge with a sniff, and yet I make bold to predict here and now that, bar the possibility of a return of either Mr. James J. Tunney, formerly of Gene, or Jack Dempsey, the stand-out contender of 1931 for the heavyweight title will be this same Scott.



Damon Runyon

To begin with, the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling affair is bound himself to defend his title in 1931 in New York State, and the champion of all England has two friends on the commission which will most certainly dictate the contender. They are William Muldoon and James A. Farley.

I say friends, but perhaps I should say supporters. I doubt that either Mr. Muldoon or Mr. Farley thinks that Scott is a great fighter, but both believe that he got a tough break at Miami, when he should have been awarded the decision over Sharkey on a foul. They feel, I am inclined to think, that when the time comes both Mr. Muldoon and Mr. Farley will be inclined, in the interests of downright fairness, that Scott get another day in court.

Legal Rocks Ahead

It is idle to dismiss Scott's pretentions with the statement that he is a trambo. If he's that, then, as Mr. Farley once remarked, it ought to be easy for a real fighter to knock him out and get rid of him for good. The claim that Scott will not draw isn't going to get the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling bout anywhere, because said winner has bound himself to take 37½ per cent of the receipts, without a guarantee, and Scott will undoubtedly be willing to take the challenger's portion of 12½ per cent.

Scott's contendership is all the more certain if Sharkey wins the title in the Milk Fund show of June 12. Sharkey is legally and sentimentally allied with the Madison Square Garden Corporation. Schmeling has also signed to defend his title, if he wins next month, under the auspices of the Garden Corporation, but signs point to a future tournament in this spot.

Schmeling is very likely to bob up later on claiming he signed with the Garden under duress from the New York Commission, especially as his old manager, Herr Bulow, is mobilizing legal forces to press a claim for the Bulow percentage of the Schmeling earnings under any contracts signed by the boxer while the Bulow contract on him is in force.

The Garden has indemnified Schmeling to the extent of $100,000 against any of Bulow's claims, and the Garden Corporation's attorneys say Bulow's contract cannot possibly hold against any of Schmeling's engagements beyond the life of his present paper, But Bulow has just as many attorneys saying it does, as there you are.

Godfrey Contender

The sad alternative to fighting Phil for the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling event may be meeting George Godfrey, the Black Shadow of Leipzerville, assuming that nothing happens to Godfrey in the meantime. If he continues belting out his opponents, I do not see how he can be denied first place in the list of contenders for 1931 preference.

I see no other heavyweight on the horizon apt to gather championship contender proportions between now and next year. Victorio Campolo, the beanpole of the Argentine, might have been built up into something if he had done a little fighting, but the trouble with Victorio seems to be that he is more interested in the size of the immediate purses than in prospects.

You may disregard most of the other material in sight at this time. Much of it has been tried, and found faulty. Some of it might prove all right if it had the advantage of proper handling and maneuvering, but unfortunately it hasn't that advantage. It takes a lot of expert jockeying to move a man up to a spot where he is considered a heavyweight contender, regardless of his fighting ability.

Sharkey got there through the luck of his connection with the Garden Corporation. Schmeling got there through the fact that the Milk Fund promoters liked him as a drawing card, and that the New York Athletic Commission wants to see the Milk Fund shows make money. Schmeling becomes champion, he owes it entirely to the friendship of the commission for the Milk Fund.

If Sharkey wins over Schmeling, the memory of the second round of the fight at Miami makes Phil, the Fainters' claim to recognition, quite logical. In that round Phil smeared Sharkey with a straight left and a right cross that evidently startled Sharkey, and perhaps alarmed him a bit, for it was then that he commenced throwing his punches very low. Accidentally, perhaps, but low.

Eagle Cubs Defeat Exeter by 6 to 2

Exeter, N. H. May 22—Exeter was defeated by the Boston College freshmen, 6 to 2, yesterday.

JACK SHARKEY IN RARE FORM

Orangeburg, N. Y., May 22 (US)—They took the blanket off Jack Sharkey here yesterday and showed an astounded gathering of the proletariat a fighter who could be ready next week to make his bid for the heavyweight championship.

Sharkey published a complete report of standard blows and deliveries on the maps and abdomens of three sparring partners who stood the gaff for five rounds.

Two of these, Johnny Grosso and Paul Cavalier are most capable. King Solomon, a battered hulk of the man who gave Sharkey two hard fights some years ago, failed in as a show closer, Sharkey went one round with him and clowned it most of the time.

Sharkey himself sounding the keynote of his training when he made a short talk before the movietone mike.

"This fight means more to me than any of those who surround me," said Jack, "and I mean to be in perfect shape mentally and physically by June 12. The title outlook has made my ambition aldaze. I will be champion because I have set my mind on it."

Schmeling Hammers Sparring Partner

Endicott, N. Y., May 22 (US)—"Better, but not good enough," was the verdict of a first row jury who watched Max Schmeling in a vendetta workout against young Don Petrin and two others at the Endicott Park open air arena yesterday.

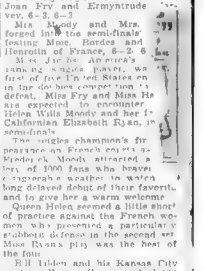
Petrin is the New Jersey stripling who humiliated Herr Schmeling in the startling events of Tuesday afternoon, but he paid a bloody price for his temerity in an aroused and angry German.

Schmeling buried Petrin from here to there. He brought blood from Petrin's nose, and smeared his lips. He knocked him into the ropes, and he knocked him into a coma.

He drove the bewildered Petrin all over the ring, plastering him with punches. Petrin was in a daze when the shining eyed Jacobs mercifully called time.

But while the German was in fine kindly mood, Stanley Pureda slipped into the ring and took him unawares, and boxed circles around Schmeling.

There will be no workout at the camp today as Schmeling leaves for Schenectady, N. Y., to make a phone call to his mother in Germany. Boxing will be resumed tomorrow.



MRS. MOODY AND PARTNER WIN

Auteuil, France, May 22 (AP)—Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., and her Belgian partner, Jeane Sigart, were eliminated today in the quarter-finals of the French hard court doubles championships by the strong English combination of Joan Fry and Ermyntrude Harvey, 6—3, 6—3

Mrs. Moody and Mrs. Harvey had a semi-final match featuring Mme. Bordes and Henrotin of France, 6—2 6

Miss Jacobs, America's leading singles player, was first of the Yanks to score on the doubles competition by defeat, Miss Fry and Miss Harvey coming to the assistance of Helen Wills Moody and her fellow Californian Elizabeth Ryan, in semi-finals.

The singles champion's appearance on French courts as Mrs. Moody, and the first in a year of 1000 fans who braved disagreeable weather to watch Mrs. Moody and Miss Fry, and to give her a warm welcome.

Queen Helen seemed a little short of practice but the two women who presented a particularly stubborn defense in the second set of Mrs. Rosana play was the best of the four.

Bill Tilden and his Kansas City protege, Wilmer Cox, reached the quarter finals in the men's doubles division by defeating Antonio Gentien and Jacques Brugier, France, 6—1, 14-12, 6—2.

Sonnenberg Is Choice Over Diglane

ZARYNOFF TO CLASH WITH LEWIS

FEATURE BOUT

SEMIFINAL BOUT

Count George Zarynoff, Russia, vs Ed "Strangler" Lewis, California.

PRELIMINARIES

First bout 8 o'clock; main bout, 9:30.

Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, will defend his title and $10,000 diamond studded belt tonight in the Garden, when he battles Henri Diglane of France, the greatest wrestler ever produced in that country.

They will meet in a finish match, two falls out of three, before one of the largest crowds of the season. The Boston & Maine railroad has promised to collaborate with Paul Bowser, promoter of the match, and three special trains will be run out of the North Station 15 minutes after the last match is finished.

The advance sale has been heavy, and though it may fall short of the Sonnenberg-Zarynoff bout of a month ago, it will rank with the largest crowds ever to attend a wrestling show here. The presence of Count Zarynoff, sensation of the season, and Ed "Strangler" Lewis in the semi-final bout, and of such stars as Bob "Bibber" McCoy, Joe Malcewicz, Wladek Zbyszko, and Renato Gardini in the preliminary bouts has helped the cause considerably.

Johnny Rules Favorite in the Betting

Sonnenberg rules a slight favorite to win. The glowering, square-jawed champion will depend largely on his flying tackle and fighting heart to carry him past the science and speed of the French flash. Gus the mat is champion who does not depend on defensive methods to win. He wages a war of aggression. He uses everything into a smashing, back-breaking offensive. He may be outwrested, but no man in the world will outgame or outfight the athlete who first made his names in the hills of Hanover.

The champion is still carrying on at the same relentless pace. He is rated as the most marvelous professional athlete of these times, because of his rigorous campaigns, for he battles along winning ways despite his consistent travels and succession of matches in all parts of the United States and Canada.

Diglane will walk into the ring with plenty of confidence. He defeated Mario Plestina two weeks ago at the Arena, and wrestling sharps will tell you that the only two men who had been able to defeat Plestina before were Sonnenberg and Lewis. Plestina is big and clumsy and slow, and he made the French flash appear slow, but Diglane will be at his flashing, fiery best when he faces Sonnenberg tonight.

The Frenchman tested all of Sonnenberg's stuff in their now famous bout at the Arena some months ago. He won the first fall, outwrestled Sonnenberg at times, and lost only when Gus the Great rammed him out of the ring and injured his head and ribs.

Count Has Speed to Bother Lewis

The semifinal bout between Zarynoff and Lewis is expected to be another exhilarating battle. The Count is the most amazing acrobatic wrestler of all time. His cat-like speed and shrewd, first flashed on the local public in bouts at the Arena early in the season, have made him one of the outstanding box-office attractions in the game.

Lewis has been an attractive figure for years, and two of them will combine to put many a dollar in the coffer of the Garden.

Jack Conway Picks Sonnenberg and Lewis to Win

SHARKEY GOT $100,000 FOR STRIBLING BOUT

By JACK SHARKEY
American Heavyweight Champion

With Gene Tunney retired, Tex Rickard announced he would sign Young Stribling and myself for a 10-round bout at Miami Beach, Fla., on February 26, 1929 as he felt the match would have an important bearing on clearing up the heavyweight situation.

Rickard had seen Stribling—pride of Macon, Ga.—battle in Florida the previous winter. He was at the ringside the night the Georgian knocked out Martin Burke.

Tex felt confident that Stribling could defeat any heavyweight in the world.

The garden boss also told me he had tired of promoting almost weekly shows in New York. He wanted to get away from the grind of the boxing game.

He also called for him to stage one winter show at Miami or Miami Beach each year and a summer show in some Northern city.

Johnny Buckley demanded a $100,000 guarantee for me to box Stribling in Florida. Johnny was willing to accept the contest on a percentage basis if the bout were staged in the North, but insisted on a guarantee if the contest were held below the Mason and Dixon line.

After considerable bargaining, Rickard agreed to pay me a guarantee of $100,000 on the condition he receive an option of my next bout in the event I won from Stribling. Buckley readily consented to this arrangement.

Rickard saw visions of a record gate at Miami Beach. Tex got a thrill out of his new adventure. He told me promoting in a new spot reminded him of the days at Goldfield when he staged the Gans-Nelson match.

DEATH OF RICKARD

Tex closed all arrangements in regard to the bout before leaving for Florida. He wired Jack Dempsey to join him there and assist in the promotion of the show.

Shortly after his arrival in Florida and on the night his Miami Beach Kennel Track was dedicated, Rickard was stricken with appendicitis.

Peritonitis set in and the greatest looking promoter the world has ever known died.

Rickard's death was a severe loss to boxing. Personality I had lost a great friend and a warm booster.

Even after I had been upset by Dempsey, Tex maintained I was the greatest heavyweight in the world. He felt I would win the title. He gave me opportunities to prove that his judgment of my boxing value was correct.

I often felt that Rickard loved boxing for the kick he got out of putting over a big match rather than for the money he made out of the sport.

William F. Carey, millionaire railroad builder, took charge of the Garden upon the death of Rickard. He told me the Garden would carry through on the contract entered into by Rickard.

Jack Dempsey joined with Carey in promoting my bout with Stribling at Miami Beach. Without the fine team work of Carey and Dempsey the affair never could have been the huge success it turned out to be.

$405,000 GATE

The magic wand of Carey built a new arena with a seating capacity of 40,000 while Dempsey built boxed the fight all through the South.

The result was every seat in the arena was filled when Stribling and myself swept into action, while the gross gate amounted to $405,000. This made the affair a financial success.

I almost went stale training for Stribling. I was down to 187 pounds a week before the fight. I then took a layoff and entered the ring at 194 pounds. I found it difficult training under the hot Southern sun.

I decided to box Stribling in the early part of the contest and beat him down slowly. I knew I was boxing before a Southern crowd and that I would have to make my victory decisive.

I also knew that the Georgian was relying upon his speed and boxing ability and that, if I were to outbox him, he would lose some of his confidence.

So for three rounds I stepped around Stribling and beat him with my left hand attack.

The opening of the bout was really decided in the fourth frame. Stribling nailed me with a terrific right hand punch to the chin which shook me to the soles of my feet.

Instead of giving ground, I walked forward and battered the Southerner's body with both hands. I drove him back against the ropes and was having the best of the milling as he left.

Stribling had hit me with his best punch only to have me come back fighting.

SHARKEY'S TACTICS

In the fifth round, Stribling started throwing right-hand punches. I would keep my feet set, pull away from his sock, and then counter with a right-hand uppercut to the body.

Stribling was extended when my punches landed and they took a great deal out of him.

I continued this same program in the sixth and seventh rounds. By the eighth frame the Georgian was tired and groggy, while the ailing was plain in the wallop. I then speeded up my attack.

The Georgian was weary at the final gong. If the bout had been a 12-round affair I would have won by a knockout.

My invasion of the South had proved successful. I had beaten its greatest fighter and was well on my way to the heavyweight championship of the world.

Meanwhile Max Schmeling had knocked out Johnny Risko and was signed to meet Paulino. I agreed to clash with the winner of the Schmeling Paulino match at the Garden.

(In the next chapter of his remarkable life story, Sharkey tells how Schmeling refused to meet him and how he signed to battle Tommy Loughran instead.)

Smiddy, president of Local 805 of Longshoremen's Union; Alexander Sullivan, past president of East Boston Retirement Association, and Capt. Thomas Barry of the Fishery League Post.

Among the groups sponsoring the drive is the East Boston Argus, which in its last issue pointed out:

"The present hospital, while it is an appreciated blessing, is far too small and its equipment too meagre, to accommodate properly such a business and industrial section. With more than 28,000 persons receiving treatment at the relief station last year—and about one-fourth of that number rushed to an in-town hospital because of lack of facilities—it would seem to appear obvious to take steps to establish a major hospital on Noddle Island."

Adventurous Three

Three young harbor business men who are noted for their adventurous spirit are very fond of taking trips to Searsport, which they enthusiastically hail as the "playground of America." They especially commend the night life there in the clubs, hotels and resorts. The trio consists of: Bernie Costello of Rogers & Webb, Joe Desmond of Stone & Downer and Joe McLean of John G. Hall Co. McLean is urging including Bucksport as a diversion.

That Ambulance Again

We hope to make the city authorities so tired of reading about wars of Charlestown's demand for an ambulance, that the matter will be sent to that district at once. The most recent group to take notice of the need of proper and prompt hospital protection was the marine safety code committee which discussed this subject a few days ago. When the committee learned that the mayor was becoming interested, action was delayed until after he has studied the matter.

Longshoreman's Gazette

CARL MORRISON, Editor

Vol. 2 No. 19

As we have been reminded that we have been giving little space to the harbor checkers, we'll make up by telling all about George "Headlock" Gibbons. He is considered by at least one person as not only being the best checker, but also the champion wrestler of the harbor. His nickname was gained by his playful habit of stealing up behind a friend and snapping on the Stranger Lewis hold. Some day his friends hope he will do it to the wrong man.

P. S.—The checkers are the hardest working crowd on the waterfront—they admit it.

A Challenge

Another of the tribe of Gibbons, not a relative of the ambitious wrestler, is J. Gibbons, an official of Local 799, being, known as "Dryhead." He claims he can operate the electric winch at Commonwealth Pier better than "Johnny Boy" Curtin. Gibbons says it's a case of curtains for Curtin.

Today's Safety Rule

More Boxers

Diary of a Modern Mariner

"Lowered Head Maj. Foulty is organizing a Prince of Wales club to be in training for the next military parade. Heard that Edward "Tubber" Lynch is an aviation enthusiast who wants to fly the Atlantic. Was informed that young sheik by nickname of 'Bookie' is thinking of getting married. Learned that the three musketeers known as 'Plug,' 'Johnny Boy' and 'Dickie' lately have shown a great desire to stroll around the city proper."

Sea Going Chronicle

We hope to present daily a list of names of Boston sailors who plan to do an A. B. tour. This will be secured from various ships and other sources.

Those signing up articles yesterday for short hops to Rio, or way of New York, are: Charles G. Horne of Dorchester, Thomas H. Green of Dorchester, William J. McGeeney of South Boston, Otto Hervesan of Boston, Peter Tsoulakis of Ward Eight, Roslindale, George Vivenzo of Somerville and F. J. Faherty of South Boston.

Headed for Texas ports are: M. W. Mahoney of Ward 8, member of Charlestown, Thomas H. Murphy of Lynn, Salvatori Bureau of East Boston, James Mann of Boston, Edward Crossland of Watertown, Borge H. Hansen of East Boston, George Foley of South Boston, Joseph Carey of Dorchester, Warren Lee of Charlestown, John Nevins of Cambridge, Charles Lanagan of East Boston and John Rosagna of Boston.

A Serious Matter

As the Gazette once in a while has been accused of being slightly humorous, we are going to take up a very important subject. We have been impressed at a serious dilemma. Several fanatic people are trying to determine whether more sailors go for rides on the Cunard swanboats than mailmen go for hikes on their holidays.

Makes New Record

Hats off to the J. L. Luckenbach, which arrived in Boston harbor yesterday five days ahead of schedule. She made San Pedro to Philadelphia in 14 days, 10 hours and 13 minutes, hailed by newspapers in Philadelphia as breaking all speed records for commercial vessels.

PARENTS NOT YET WHOLLY SUPERFLUOUS

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Formerly, being a parent was a 24-hour-a-day job. Or parents thought that it was.

Not nowadays, since young people have taken to managing their own lives, and are willing to ask so little help in doing it, parents are relegated to class themselves among the unemployed. They are rather miserable about it, too.

Beatrice Fairfax

They used really to enjoy, poor things, that sense of being overburdened and overworked, of being patient human sacrifices to children who wanted or needed some service pretty nearly every minute in the day.

And now that youngsters of 16 coolly omit to ask maternal advice on this point, or paternal opinion on that, mothers and fathers are dolefully wondering what they are for, after all.

"Our oldest child is 19," a "Father of Six" wrote me several days ago, "and our youngest is 11. We supply their food and clothes, and that is all they want of us. They regard anybody over 25 as decrepit. The younger you are, they think, the more you know. Their mother and I, in the forties, are completely out of date.

"Ours are not bad children, but they don't seem in respect us or our authority. And it is the same in other families.

"Do you think all parents should be scrapped at 40? Or have we a right to enjoy life for a few years longer?"

You will notice that this parent has no serious complaint to make of his children's conduct. The trouble is not that these young people are really bad, but that they have their own feelings are hurt.

Naturally they make a great mistake, these youngsters. Certainly they are conceited and cocksure. But they do succeed in blundering along, somehow. They are healthy and happy, and I believe most of them are genuinely good. So if I were a parent, this is what I would do:

First, face the fact that this is an age of youth. Youth has definite, insistent rights. Middle age may well make up its mind to sit in the back seat and make no protest.

Second, enjoy the new leisure and freedom from responsibility. Released as you are from certain of your burdens, why not devote the hours thus saved in recapturing your own youth? Why not go to plays and parties, read or dig in your garden? Try to be young again.

Third, I would try to remember that deep down, these children of yours are just as human as any children ever were and that the bond between parents and children is a strong and strong a thing that no temporary fashion in behavior can really affect it at all.

Avoid lands that final job, for instance, most of the fun and triumph of it would be missed altogether if he couldn't bring the news home to father and mother and enjoy their approval and pride in him.

And when Jane's wedding day draws near, you will find that she clings to father and mother as she never clung in her life.

Under such surface independence of theirs, they are loving you all the time and counting on your love. The moment any sort of crisis appears, this will be as plain as day to you.

Sooner or later your children will need you profoundly and will acknowledge it. Try to be patient with them for the few years in between.

The Office Wife

By FAITH BALDWIN

CHAPTER 35

"This"—she indicated Polly by the merest gesture of her hand—"this accident has nothing to do with my decision. I came on purpose to tell you that I was sorry, that you must let me go."

Before Ted could answer, Polly Ames spoke, anger drying the tears in her eyes, anger lending force to her words

"You're a selfish woman, Anne Murdock," she accused. "You used Ted as long as it suited you, and now you throw him over because you no longer need him. What's the answer? Did Mr. Eaton give you your job back?"

"Keep quiet," Ted ordered, turning on the other girl savagely. "All this is none of your business."

"It is my business! I'll make it so!" cried Polly furiously. "Listen to me, Anne. All the time Ted was going with you at first, he was going with me, too. Oh, I knew I had your leavings, but I didn't care. I was in love with him, really in love. I thought he'd come to see it; to see how little he meant to you, how much he meant to me.

"I wanted him, I tell you. Not as a convenience, but as my own. I wanted a home and babies. I wanted Ted—and because I did, I let him make love to me; I let him kiss me with you in his mind. I thought perhaps some day he'd forget you and turn to me.

"Well, when you lost your job and saw that your boss had no further use for you, you gave Ted his chance. Some chance! A fine life he would have led with you always comparing him with another man. Don't I know what a life it would have been? Hasn't he played the same game with me?

"You make me sick, you business women, competing with men, thinking yourselves so superior, always aiming to get the man higher up, not giving a snap of your fingers for the man who hasn't got there yet! You wouldn't be willing to work for a man. You'd always be tormenting up to him how important you were to your job.

"Work!" said Polly scornfully. "What does that amount to—to a real woman? It's just marking time until a man come along who'll work for you, who'll make a home for you; a man who'll come to you, not for business conversation, but for love, for companionship, a man who'll be head of his house, not just tolerated in it."

"She's right," Anne said, her voice shaking. "She speaks for her type, I guess, and puts mine in its place. I'm sorry this had to happen," she told O'Hara. "But please believe me, it isn't because I saw Polly with you that I told you I'd quit. I'd made up my mind to it before I came down. She hasn't made any difference, except that she makes me see myself more clearly."

O Hara looked down at Polly and then across at Anne. He said, with utter ruthlessness: "I've known for a long time how you felt about me. But I cared for you so much—then, it is over."—That was as willing to take the chance."

"I am willing to take it for you," she told him. "Good-by."

She turned and walked away. Ted walking over to the pile of drift wood, cursed aloud and kicked at the logs with his sandaled feet.

Anne found him in a ridiculous positioned. She'd let him down before another woman. Not that that mattered, but somehow Allan was forced to reflect. A woman who loved him. Well, she'd heard that much—that someone cared for him. That was a sort of stinging salve to his pride.

Though it hadn't been her fault, either. It had been his from the beginning. But a man couldn't be expected to guess when he knew he was wanted. Of course Polly had made a mess of this and he'd never get over Anne, but still Polly loved him and she hadn't been responsible. He had taken her in his arms and kissed her after she'd asked him when he was to be married and had started to cry when he said her.

No, it hadn't been Polly's fault. She was the sort of girl a man married and took care of. She didn't make you feel inferior and schoolboyish. She made you feel every inch a man, and every pound of your weight, and every atom of your strength, and perhaps a bit more.

Anne's footprint he walked back to Polly and set her on her feet.

"It's pretty much of a mess, isn't it?" he asked gently. "Come on; let's go back to the house."

"Please," Polly begged, "please forgive me."

"It doesn't matter," Ted said casually, and went with her back to the bungalow. He was not thinking of Polly then; he was thinking of Anne.

He would not be until much later that he would realize how completely, how gladly, how gratefully he had come to forgive them both.

New Jacket Frocks Have Young Ideas

By ANN ARDEN

(Ann Arden broadcasts latest style news over WHDH every Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a. m.)

ALL SMART jacket frocks growing out of the same practical idea on not arrive at the same point of combining. Some go a dressy way. Some decide to spring pan. Some look like a big morning in the shops.

BUT WHATEVER their individual pursuits in the way of gores, ruffles, lingerie touches or prim tucks, the smartest jacket frocks are all alike in that they have "young ideas."

IF YOU are looking for a business frock that has a nice blend of efficiency and feminine style, set out for a jacket frock such as mentioned and you will never look too long efficient.

THE YOUNG MATRON with no office to go to, but with errands or club missions of business-like character, should find a splendid stand-by either in thin woolen or silk.

MEASURE a second frock's suitability for your type to your ability or inability to wear a tailored small beret. For the two fashions are of a kind. The costume, like the beret, is youthful and piquant with its short, snug jacket in red, fitted over a frock of satin-striped white crepe.

CHANEL WAS sparing of sleeves when she designed the following youthful jacket frock. This sleevelessness, by the way, is a feature of many new jackets and particularly of jackets that are deeply capped.

DID YOU wash your necklace this morning? You might have, if it consisted of these new washable beads. They are of light aluminum, covered with silk or shantung in colors to match light summer frocks. Almost every material having already been used for beads this versatile season, Captain Molyneux the enticing, conceived the idea of using silk for a jewelry purpose.

* * *

A DAINTY ADDITION to the handbag equipment is a diminutive perfume atomizer. These days when we must rush from a committee meeting to a downtown dinner or from the office to afternoon tea, this gadget becomes a welcome comrade of the powder, rouge and lipstick brigade. The pocket atomizer is very flat and will take up very little room in the handbag.

Correct Manners .. .. by Mrs. Beeckman

Informal Wedding Attire

MRS. BEECKMAN:

Please advise me whether it would be permissible for a groom to wear a tuxedo at an informal house wedding, which is to take place at 6:30, when only close friends and relatives are present?

2—If this could be done and the bride were wearing a dinner frock with sleeves, is a hat in order?

Harvard LOUIS A.

2—For a wedding at this time of day, with the groom wearing informal evening clothes it would be more consistent for the bride not to wear a hat.

Heart and Home

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She Wants Allan Back

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl 18 years old. All boys think I am nice looking and a little out of the ordinary.

I met Allan at a party. He is also 18 years old. He is very attractive and is conceited about it. He came down a few times and wrote me letters.

After I had gone with him for a year, I met one of his friends. He asked me, "Do you like Allan?" To this I replied: "I like him very much, but I like another fellow better." I did this because I didn't want Allan to know I liked him. Did I do right; if not, why? He has never called or came down to the house. How can I get him back?

C. R.

Dear "C. R."

Comparisons, especially of one's friends, are always in bad taste. It would have been quite correct to admit that you found the young man pleasant and likable without going into details or erring in a misleading manner. I'm afraid you will have to charge the loss of his acquaintance up to experience and do better next time.

Your Questions Answered

Beatrice Fairfax will be glad to answer your questions regarding any problems of heart and home. Names will be kept confidential if you wish an immediate answer enclose self-addressed stamped envelope.

Bobbie was about to receive one of his much dreaded baths and consequently the tears were coming fast and his voice was raised in protest. At last his dad said, "Keep your shirt on son." The lad replied: "I can't, mother just took it off"

Cookies Fine Dessert for Picnics

The picnic season is with us and jaunts to the woods, hikes, fishing parties and motor trips beckon us on sunshiny spring and early summer days. Of course the interesting item of all such excursions is the lunch basket and the high light of the lunch basket, to my mind, are wholesome cookies. They answer so well as dessert on picnic days and for dinner meals. Here are some

MRS MARY TARR,

The Business Girl

Time is a vital factor in the business-girl housekeeper. All short cuts are welcomed in our exchange column. The more the merrier.

Miss F. H. of Brighton writes: "I find it much easier to wash greasy dishes if I put a little washing soda in the hot water before washing them. Lemon juice cuts the grease also and no soap is needed. I keep a supply of soft tissue paper on hand in the kitchen, and find it a great help in cleaning up dishes before washing them. There is nothing better than soft paper for cleaning grease from frying pans, etc."

Miss T. A. R. of Taunton says: "Soon after I started housekeeping an aunt gave me some lovely cut glass, which I did not dare to use for fear of chipping while washing. Finally I hit upon the idea of putting a Turkish towel in the bottom of the pan, keeping the water like warm, and washing just one piece at a time."

Mrs. M B. G. of Arlington tells us, "I find that the ordinary oiled dusters leave oil on the floor, which collects more dust. I remember a good homemade duster we used to use as follows: soak old pieces of flannel in paraffin oil over night; wring out tightly and wash in luke warm water and let dry. It will gather all dust and give a good polish to furniture and floors."

Won't all of you business girls who have invented short cuts you think would be of interest, make a note of them and send them in to Martha Lee, 3 Winthrop sq., Boston?

Baby Bunting

"I've some suggestions for your baby column, that I'd like you to pass along," said Mother Mine this morning, so here they are:

"To keep children interested in their regular nourishing food, strict observance of the following rules may help:

"Serve meals at REGULAR hours.

"Don't spoil appetites with candy between meals. Allow candy only after meals—and be sure it's GOOD candy. Candy eaten after meals will not spoil appetites, and children will be interested in more nourishing food.

"Watch that your boys and girls do not 'wash down' food. They should swallow it before taking a drink, eat small mouthfuls slowly and chew thoroughly.

"Dinner at noon with a light supper at night is best for restful sleep. For young children, cereal with milk makes a delightful, digestible, nourishing supper—winter and summer.

"Above all, make your meals happy and interesting. Dietitians say that enjoyment of a meal is almost as important as the food itself. Laughter and happy prattle should be part of every meal.

"Variety helps to keep your meals interesting.

"Allocate but and ready-to-serve cereals.

"Encourage an atmosphere of mystery and adventure about the morning meal. Get the family to saying: 'I wonder what surprise mother has for us this morning?'"

THE WEEKLY STORY FOR BOYS and GIRLS

Tom Toddy and Tillie Toddy

Where Alfred rode because he was against the rules

EVERY THURSDAY By UNCLE TODDY ON THE RADIO AT 6:30 P.M. EASTERN STANDARD TIME STATION WEEI

Copyright, 1930, by Paul W Rar

Lorraine and David and Tom and he picked Alfred up with one of his big cawed feet.

Tillie, you remember, climbed into the little cabin that was hung around the Owl's neck and strapped to his breast, so that he could fly them across the mountains, which, of course, were much too steep for them to climb.

And the Owl was in a hurry to fly across the mountains. He either hold tight or fall hard. Take your choice."

"Well, then, hold tight," said Alfred, "but hold tight as loosely as you can.

"I will," said the Owl, "Let's go!"

And with a great flapping of his wings he rose gracefully from the ground and sailed away, up through the air, until he was higher than the highest mountain.

Lorraine stuck her head out of one of the little windows and called to Alfred, "Are you all right, Alfred?"

"Yes," he replied, "I guess so. But I wish this breeze didn't blows through my whiskers so fast."

"I guess we'll have to wait to talk to him until we land," said Lorraine to David and Tom and Tillie.

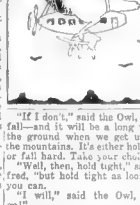
"I guess so," said Tillie. "Yes! Isn't it comfortable in this cabin, with these lovely little chairs to sit on."

"I should say it is!" said David. "It's the nicest aeroplane cabin I've ever been in."

"Why, David!" cried Lorraine, "You've never been in one before!"

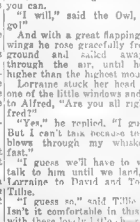
"Well," said David, "Even if I haven't, this is nicer than any one that I ever could have been in."

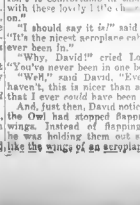
And, just then, David noticed that the Owl had stopped flapping his wings. Instead of flapping them he was holding them out straight and "How." And the three ears we



"If I don't," said the Owl, "you'll fall—and it will be a long way to the ground when we get up over the mountains. It's either hold tight or fall hard. Take your choice."

"Oh," cried Alfred, "Don't hold on so tight!"





there was a whirring noise at the front of the cabin, like the noise of an aeroplane motor.

Lorraine looked out of one of the windows and, sure enough, there was an aeroplane motor at the front end of the cabin—and it was whirring away at a great rate.

He showed it to the others.

Lorraine stuck her head out of a window and said to the Owl, "I thought you had to flap your wings to fly. I didn't know you had a motor."

"Oh," the Owl replied, "that's an old-fashioned idea. You see, I'm modern, I have all the latest improvements."

"And," he went on, "if you want a bit of good advice—I don't suppose you do, but I'll give it to you anyway—if you want a bit of advice, I advise you never to flap your wings when you want to fly. Always use a motor."

"Why," said Lorraine, "I couldn't flap my wings, because I have no wings."

"Of course not!" the Owl exclaimed. "That's why my advice is such a good one!"

"Oh," said Lorraine because she couldn't think of anything else to say.

Then she did think of something else to say. She said:

"You've never told us your name, Mr. Owl."

"Who-o-o-o," said the Owl.

"I don't know who," said Lorraine, "but you haven't answered my question. What is you name?"

"Who-o-o-o," said the Owl, "that is my name."

"Oh, thank you!" said Lorraine. Then she went on, "Have you any brothers and sisters, Who?"

"Yes," said Who, the Owl, "have you?"

"Of course I have," said Lorraine, "David is my brother."

"So he is," said Who. "Well, I'm much better off than you are, because I have three brothers and two sisters and our mother has three eggs—but of course we don't know whether they are brothers or sisters."

"What are the names of your brothers and sisters?" Lorraine asked.

"My brothers' names," said Who, are 'Which,' 'Where' and 'When.' My sisters' names are 'Why' and 'How.' And the three ears we

"And now," said Who, "you had better look out the window, because we are passing over some beautiful country."

They were enjoying them very much when, all of a sudden, they heard someone calling, "Help! Help! Help!"

And every time he called his voice got further and further away.

"Oh, My Beak and Pin-Feathers," cried Who, the Owl, "I forgot Alfred. I've let him drop!"

But not Tom. He shouted to Who, the Owl. He said, "Dive and catch him! You can't catch him, you can't dive and you can't fly!"

"Maybe I can!" shouted Who, "Hold tight to your chairs." And he dived full speed after Alfred.

He dived so fast that Lorraine and Tillie thought their hearts were going to jump right out of their mouths.

And then—when Alfred was just about to strike the hard rocks below, Who, the Owl, caught him in his claws and started up again—just in the nick of time.

Alfred, the rabbit, was very angry with Who. He sputtered and sputtered and scolded.

"If you ever do that again," he said, "I won't have any ears at your house next Easter."

So, of course, Who promised never to do it again.

By this time it had begun to get dark and, as they had passed all the mountains, Who, the Owl, flew gracefully to the ground and gently set Alfred down. Then Tom and David helped Lorraine and Tillie out of the cabin and thanked Who for the pleasant flight.

And Who flapped his wings and started his motor and flew off again.

"I'm glad that's over!" said Alfred.

"I bet you are," said Lorraine, "but I'm hungry, aren't you?"

Of course, they all were, so Tom said:

"Well, if we are hungry let's look around for Mr. Toddy's restaurant, because he said he would be wherever we were when we got hungry. Oh! There it is!"

"Come on!" he said, "come and get your breakfast over here. Then you can spend the night here and start on to Toddy Town in the morning."

And, next week, I'll tell you about their trip across the desert.

Now don't forget that you can get a copy of the Toddy Story Book, with colored pictures of all of the funny people and animals, by just sending a post card to Uncle Toddy, 250 Park Ave., New York City.

EVENING AMERICAN MARKETS

New York Stocks — News of Street

DULL TRADING AGAIN STAGED IN WALL ST.

New York, May 22 And so we once more have had a dull day in stock trading staged in Wall st. today. In the final hour pivotal issues were offering between their highs and lows for the day.

Through most of the day 20 favorites failed to register gains, unsettled by against a war of speculative inertia. Trading during the early hours of the session was even lighter than yesterday, and save for a few volatile issues stocks were dominated to move much in either direction.

After selling off nearly 20, J. I. Case entered the final period with over half of its loss recovered. International Nickel at the close rallied nearly 4 from its low.

American Tobacco issues advanced around 3 points in liveliest dealings.

The professional element of late finds itself unable to extract any substantial wave of selling by taking the short side, and fails to find a following on the long side. Today's trading was typical of that of other recent sessions.

Around the only real scare buying of General Motors, attributed by brokerage circles to a large operator who sold long in the morning side of the Atlantic caused progressiveness in the bear ranks and encouraged the unsettled most of the early hours.

Speculation for the rise was assumed in a few specialties and the list developed a firm tone.

Splitup and increased dividend actions announced late yesterday failed to inspire notah a bullishness. American Machine & Foundry made negligible response to the plan of a five-for-one split, and the increase of the preferred, and International Salt did little, despite the increase in the dividend from $1.50 to $2, and the proposal to split the stock three for one. Missouri, Kansas & Texas ran into selling on the announcement of the initial $1

COPPERS UNSETTLED

Dividend on the present stock then rallied

Coppers were again unsettled in reduction of the dividend from quarterly payment from $1 to 30 cent the third copper dividend cut this week.

Sentiment in Rail circles showed improvement, reflecting publication of the Chesapeake & Ohio and Western Maryland April earning reports, showing gains over the month of 1929.

The few railway earnings reports for April now at hand show an aggregate gain from April 1929, of about 20 per cent, but dial l roads all together showed a drop of more than 30 per cent in March from the like 1929 period.

Auburn Auto to early session weak, strongest issue of the issues rising 2 points. Were included Chesapeake & Ohio, United Aircraft, Texas Corp, North Pacific, and Grigsby Grunow.

The last named was an issue featured in bullish reports based on optimistic forecasts for the company's new electrical refrigerator, and improved outlook for its radio business.

Several shares showed moderate firmness including Coca Cola, Radium, Byers, Public Service of N. J. General Electric, Radio Keith Pox and Air Reduction. U. S. Steel and American Can sold off a couple of points, then more recovery.

A few shares, notably Eastman Machine & Foundry Eisman Kodak, Magma Allied Chemical and Many sold off about 4 to 5 points, then rallied Mohawk Carpet reached a new 1930 low on omission of its dividend due at this time.

There was disappointment in some quarters that the Bank of England made no reduction in its 3 per cent rate, but credit in this market is plentiful.

Although call money again opened at 2 per cent, the supply in the outside market at 2 and time money, now around the lowest levels in six years, showed an easier tone.

In the final hour a rapid rise of unsold industrials were in moderate demand. U. S. Steel American Can, American Telephone and General Motors sold up a point or more, and Radio General Electric and Westinghouse Electric attracted moderate buying. The strength was in evidence in

The closing tone was Total sales were the lowest since January

BOSTON PRICES AT LOWER LEVELS

Prices were worked to lower levels in trading on the Boston Stock Exchange today. Early trading saw prices 1 to 2 points below Wednesday's close but a mid-day rally aided a mild recovery. Tendency in the final hour was toward lower levels.

Edison dropped a point, New England Telephone 1 and Venezuela Mexican 1. Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway first preferred sold at a new low for the year at 34, off a point. Shoe-Sanford at 66½, off 1¼, was also at a new low. American Telephone trading was active, although fluctuating in a narrow price range around 20.

Among the investment trusts American Founders at 17¾, United Founders at 28⅝, Public Utility Holding at 35⅞ and U. S. Electric Power at 17¾ all showed fractional losses.

Torrington and Aero Underwriters each added a point, Boston & Maine, a stamped shipment and 9 points to a new low for the year at 155½. Railway Light & Security dipped 2 points. Maine Hydrating and Old Colony were fractionally lower.

Inspiration Consolidated Copper Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents. Three months ago a scarcely-dividend of 50 cents was paid. Dividend is payable July 7 to stock of record June 19.

Acquisition of control of the Chapman Bank & Trust Co. of Portland, Me., by the Cumberland Share Corp. by purchase of the holdings of Philip F. Chapman, and acquisition of the Casco Mercantile Trust Co., which has been controlled by Kidder, Peabody & Co. for the past five years, is designed to form a strong banking organization adequate to meet the needs of business in its territory.

It was felt in Portland business circles that both institutions might be better developed through an identity of interest, and that accordingly decided to buy control, if possible. The Cumberland Share Corp. was formed to finance the undertaking, ownership in this holding company being distributed among a large number of local people. A large Boston bank assisted in the financing of the purchase.

It is understood to be the ultimate purpose to consolidate the Chapman Bank & Trust Co. and the Casco Mercantile, forming one of the largest banking institutions in Maine.

CURB MARKET HAS A SLOW SESSION

New York, May 22—The curb market was dull and heavy most of the session today, brightening up a bit in the closing period.

Most of the selling operations met with fair resistance in leading shares and a small number of stocks pointed higher, but the list as a whole recorded lower levels in one of the slowest sessions of the past for a fortnight.

After a steady opening in which prices varied slightly from the previous close, stocks turned downward in the hour or so. Encountering support at the lower levels, the market then fluctuated irregularly with small changes in the prominent issues.

Electric Bond & Share and Electric Light & Power A dropped more than a point while Standard Power & Light new was down more than 3. American Commonwealths Power "B", Niagara Hudson, American Super Power and Investors Equity were firmer but traded quietly.

Specialties and industrials moved irregularly and some sharp changes came out in the more volatile shares. Deere (new) sagged several points.

Technicolor, which suffered a wide decline yesterday moved back 5 or 6 points. Anglo-Chilean Nitrate, Ford issues and American Cyanamid "B" were firm. Quaker Oats, an infrequently traded stock, advanced about 41 points on odd-lot dealings.

The oils were very dull. Gulf yielded a couple of points. Standard of Indiana was moderately higher as Cities Service eased.

Spinning spindles in place April 30 numbered 34,195,464, of which 34,217,498 were operated at some time during the month, compared with 34,317,498 and 28,898,464 for March this year and 35,238,490 and 28,860,382 were operated at some time during the month, compared with 34,317,498 and 28,898,464 for March this year and 35,238,490 and 30,924,184 for April last year.

FORBES TELLS HOW BIG MEN GOT START

By B. C. FORBES

New York, May 22—When we see or read about multi-millionaires it doesn't occur to most of us that they ever have to wrestle with financial problems such as beset ourselves.

B. C. Forbes

The truth is that I know of hardly any towering business men financial giants who didn't have to overcome obstacles sufficient to break the heart of most mortals.

Raising capital still is the hardest part of launching most enterprises and of nursing them along in the early stages.

John D. Rockefeller told me that he had to hustle prodigiously to find lenders when he began to build up his oil business. Young Rockefeller had been well schooled in finding money on short notice. He told me:

"My father had taught me this lesson by coming to me at the most awkward moments in my early business life and demanding repayment of his loans. He did this, of course, to test my resourcefulness and my ability to meet sudden emergencies. After I had hustled to procure his money he would laugh and hand it back, saying he was glad to know I was able to meet my obligations."

In those days banking facilities were limited. Mr. Rockefeller recalled with a chuckle how, in one instance, a bank president met him on the street and gravely told him his borrowings had become so alarmingly heavy that he must come and talk the situation over with the directors. "I'll be delighted to meet the directors," the budding oil genius replied, "for I need a great deal more. Mr. Rockefeller, with the gleefulness of a schoolboy, added: "He never sent for me."

Carnegie was an inveterate borrower. Edison for years was not even hardly ahead of the sheriff. Ford was chronically hustled during his early struggles. Men worth a big start manifest no credit. Alexander Graham Bell and Theodore N. Vail sometimes hadn't even much money to pay what were struggling to convince people that the telephone was sometimes more than a new toy. Robert Dollar went bankrupt shortly after he entered the lumber business. James N. Wills had a terrific struggle to keep the Overland Company from shutting down in the panic of 1907. Wm. C. Durant's financial troubles are well known.

Walter P. Chrysler's wife wouldn't speak to him for two weeks when he "squandered" all the family savings and borrowed money to acquiring a swell $5000 automobile when a railway employe—she learned in time that the "squandering" was the shrewdest investment her husband could possibly have made. Incidentally, young Chrysler had quite a time finding anyone willing to lend him part of the price. Henry Clay Frick, who left $125,000,000, got his start because he was able to persuade Secretary Mellon's father to lend him $10,000 during the awful panic of 1873. John R. Patterson for years hadn't a spare penny to ring up any one of his cash registers.

John B. Miller, Californian utility magnate, tells hair-raising stories of the financial adventures a generation or more. Henry L. Doherty had experiences scarcely less grueling.

So, when you are up against it financially reflect that you have lots of company—even among the kind of fellows who reach the very summits of success.

TELEPHONE'S CONVERSION NEARS END

Five o'clock tomorrow afternoon is the time limit for conversion of American Telephone 4½ per cent bonds in season to secure the right of subscription to the new stock. Thereafter it will require a thoroughly convincing excuse to convert and still get the right.

American Telephone stock is currently quoted around 242 and the rights around 20. Thus theoretically the stock, ex-rights, should sell around 222. The 4½ per cent bonds are quoted around 160½. After the stock sells ex-rights the bonds should theoretically sell about seven points lower. Assuming substantially all of the bonds converted into stock, the equity figure will be reduced approximately $13 a share.

Subtracting this from the value of the right, viz., $20, leaves both the amount by which the price of the bonds is expected to decline after May 22, which is the last day for the subscription. It behooves the bondholder, therefore, in order to avoid a loss of seven points in principal, to sell or convert by May 23.

When American Telephone announced the present stock issue last month it was stated that amount of the issue would be approximately $235,000,000. This estimate was based on stock outstanding at the time, but did not reflect the increase consequent upon later conversion of some $147,000,000 4½ per cent bonds at that time outstanding.

If all of these bonds should be converted before Friday evening the amount of the stock issue would be increased about $24,500,000, making the total issue $255,500,000. However, for one reason or another, some—possibly many—bondholders will not convert.

Wheat Sells Higher in Chicago Market

Chicago, May 22—Reports of extensive damage by Hessian fly in southern Nebraska and northeast Kansas, with Liverpool quotations higher, gave wheat values here an upward turn today. Opening unchanged to ¾ higher, Chicago wheat afterward sagged somewhat, but then scored an all-around advance.

Corn, oats and provisions were firm, with corn starting unchanged to ⅜ up, and subsequently showing a general rise.

The BIG House

ously. But Morgan was looking away, his lips moving.

Anne Marlowe! So that was her name. Anne Marlowe! How simple and beautiful. Just like her picture. Morgan walked away, groggy, paying no further attention to Kent. Morgan passed through the crowd of prisoners, seeing nothing. He strode by without heeding a Mexican who was intoning a pater-noster in Spanish, two fine-looking men who might have been bankers in the other world; a young boy, thin, tubercular, coughing; two grizzled old-timers curving amiably between themselves; two Chinese jabbering in their monosyllabic jargon.

He walked on until he ran into Butch, who was standing in the midst of a usual group of admirers—Olsen, the Swede; Joe Lajensky, one-time gunman and now a very kind and tender soul of the prison garden; Dopey, who still got his heroin somehow and sent the drug scorching into veins through a scratch made with a rusty safety pin, and Putnam, who had killed a man because he wore spats.

"Some day I'll carve the heart out of that skunk Wallace, and send it in a tin can to the Governor," Butch was saying. He saw Morgan. "Say, Morgan, what's getting everything in fine shape for the big blowoff . . .

Morgan nodded, but said nothing. Butch slapped him on the back.

"Say, what's getting into you! You act like you was takin' hop. Come on, snap out of it."

"Yeah?"

"Yeah—we've got the works fixed."

Heads Together

Kent Watched Them

Butch and the rest got their heads together and began to whisper. Meantime, Kent, who was leaning against the wall, watched them from a distance.

Frank Oliver, an expert in shoe-licking trusty who was serving a ten-spot for larceny, stopped in front of Kent.

Kent looked up listlessly.

"He'll kill me some day. He bullies me all the time. Every time he steps on my heels, shoves me from behind, kicks me, and when I look around he just grins and makes a funny disgraceful noise with his mouth. He carries a knife and he'll stab me. He gets mad at nothing."

"Oh, he carries a knife does he?" inquired Oliver, with a slow lothing here and there.

Prefers Death to Return to Soviet

Wichit, Kan., May 22 (AP)—Rather than obey an order from the Soviet government to return to Russia, V. G. Hatchnatouroff, sent to this country to study oil refining methods, committed suicide here today by shooting.

Two notes left by Hatchatouroff revealed that he feared the Soviet government, for which he worked as an industrial research student.

For months the men have been utilizing every spare moment to insure an adequate supply. This work gives them an independent source of income to purchase small luxuries unknown to hospital regulations.

Physicians say that the task of assembling the flowers provides a therapeutic value for mentally unbalanced patients and has a soothing effect on convalescents.

George E. Phelan

His Life Work Well Done

When Earth's last picture is painted and the tubes are twisted and dried,
When the oldest color has faded and the youngest critic has died,
We shall rest, and faith we shall need it—lie down for an aeon or two,
Till the Master of all good workmen shall put us to work anew.

Kipling's l'envoi echoes the city's sorrow in the passing of the manager of the George Robert White Fund, a man of sterling worth and a public servant of tremendous value.

More than that it best typifies his philosophy on this earth, and for that reason, perhaps, was his favorite poem and will, at his own request, be read tomorrow at his funeral.

In the establishment of the Boston Health Units, Mr. Phelan achieved a great work that will stand as the most fitting monument to his memory. It was his last picture, that required eight years in the painting. In its accomplishment he has earned his rest.

And no one shall work for money, and no one shall work for fame,
But each for the joy of working and each in his separate star
Shall draw the thing as he sees it, for the God of things as they are.

"For the God of things as they are," Mr. Phelan drew as he saw during this life—slow to blame, seeking no praise, oblivious to fame and finding his keenest joy in friends and his work.

When, eight years ago, Mayor Curley selected him to manage the $7,000,000 White Fund and put that tremendous wealth to best use in the city's service, he could have made no wiser selection.

Under Mr. Phelan's direction, Boston pioneered in municipal health work, both preventive and correctional. The units established placed Boston in the front rank of the world's cities; they have been responsible, in large degree, for the good health of Boston school children and the entire city's fine record.

Mr. Phelan was the very soul of honor in all his dealings, public and private. His friends were legion and personal service to them was one of his greatest delights.

The almost universal sorrow in his death may be tempered by the knowledge that in life he gave his best in the public service, making little children healthier and happier children, making Boston a better place in which to live.

Roberts Is Best Choice

Strengthens Supreme Court

President Hoover has good reason to be gratified by the national commendation of his selection of Owen J. Roberts of Pennsylvania as associate justice of the United States Supreme Court in succession to the late Justice Sanford of Tennessee.

And the United States Senate is no less entitled to national commendation for the promptness and unanimity with which it has advised and consented to this excellent nomination.

The truth is that Mr. Roberts appears to be pre-eminently qualified on every score for distinguished service on the great tribunal and his selection meets with the highest expectations of his countrymen.

The new associate justice is a scholar in the law and was a teacher of the law for many years. He is a practitioner of pre-eminent ability and long and varied experience.

For the last six years, Mr. Roberts has commanded the attention and the confidence of the whole country by the distinction and the diligence with which he has served the Federal Government as special counsel in its suits against the participants in the scandalous Elk Hills and Teapot Dome oil contracts.

The fact that the Government's oil lands have been recovered is in no small degree due to the ability and fidelity with which Mr. Roberts discharged his arduous duties as special counsel.

As a state and Federal prosecuting attorney, as a teacher of the law, as a practitioner and as a public servant, Mr. Roberts has demonstrated that he possesses those qualities of mind and heart, those talents and abilities and those traits of character that are of the stuff of which good judges are made.

Perhaps Judge Parker was not the best appointment after all. Perhaps the Senate did not err in rejecting his nomination.

In any event, President Hoover, if he made a mistake, has certainly redeemed himself by the appointment of Mr. Roberts. And in any case the Senate has demonstrated its whole-hearted desire to strengthen the Supreme Court by its enthusiastic confirmation of Mr. Roberts.

Our Partisan Legislators

Despite Boston's non-partisan elections, the question of restoring the mayoralty power to appoint the police commissioner has again been settled in the Legislature along strictly partisan lines.

"On practically a straight party lineup," the news tells us, the House killed the bill which would have given Boston home rule in the selection of the head of its own police department.

Some day the legislators on Beacon Hill will appreciate the fact that the State's finger in the city's pie does not improve its flavor on the public palate. That day may not be so far off, for the controversy over the bill this year has been helpful and is a healthy sign.

Voters are not nearly as partisan as the men they choose to represent them, and a referendum on the "home rule" bill might have a different result.

H. G. Wells Writes

Neo-Lamarcitians swayed many because of the moral attractiveness of their idea in connection with evolution. Master what you can of mathematics and your child will compute with greater ease; be merciful and your children will find it less difficult to practise mercy.

One likes to think in that fashion. And with various additions and improvements Lamarckism is to be found vigorously paralleled in much modern thought outside the world of biological specialists. There has been added to the individual effort the idea of an upward driving force of a general sort.

H. G. Wells

Bergson finds an elan vital, George Bernard Shaw a life force, both mystical drives toward adaptation coming from or acting through the organism. Both owe something, no doubt, to Schopenhauer's idea of a driving Will in things.

Whether such a hypothesis is necessary or even harmonious with the facts of the case we shall leave the reader to judge at the end of this Book 4. We give it here as a second theory, which must be treated with respect, the theory of an upward drive in life.

Now while Lamarck was elaborating his transformist ideas, an English clergyman, Dr. Malthus (1766-1834) was developing certain views that did not at first sight seem to have any bearing upon natural history and transformism at all. His preoccupations seem to have been purely social. He was struck by the rapid increase of the human population about him—and he lived in a prolific age.

It was increasing, he thought, much faster than was the food supply. Consequently there was already a harsh struggle for subsistence going on. Mankind was breeding its way toward starvation; the weakest would go to the wall.

Famine and the check of pestilence were the natural counters to this drift toward over-population and an unendurable poverty, and he urged his fellow creatures to avoid such miseries by restraining their increase through late marriage and through continence.

The artificial interference with conception known as birth-control or Neo-Malthusianism we may note had no place in his philosophy.

That was as far as he got; he betrayed no consciousness of the bearing of his observations upon the fact of transformism, of which indeed he may have been quite unaware.

It happened, however, that his writings were read by two scientific travelers and naturalists who were both alive to the fact of evolution, but by no means satisfied with Lamarckism as a complete explanation of it. (Creative Evolution with its elan vital was still to come.) There were Charles Darwin (1809-1882) and Alfred Russell Wallace (1823-1913).

It is well to note here that Darwin did not "discover" Evolution as many people suppose. Evolution is not Darwinism and Darwinism is not Evolution. The idea of Evolution is not only at least as old in modern thought as Lamarck, but adumbrations of it are clearly traceable in such ancient writers as Lucretius and Empedocles.

But in the minds of Darwin and Wallace, looking for operating causes for the evolutionary process, the phrase of Malthus, "the struggle for subsistence," found a fruitful soil. Both realized a second great fact, for fact it is, in the general conditions of life—namely, Natural Selection.

Capital Silhouettes

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

HEREAFTER when in trouble over the Volstead Act just give the Bishop Jim Cannon explanation: "I didn't know it was a speakeasy—I thought it was an ice cream parlor."

BUT HOW much would Germany feel, in the United States of Europe, if France and England jammed through a law prohibiting sauerkraut and making the sale, purchase and possession of pretzels a felony?

KEEPING TABS on the progress of the Zep across the ocean is like recording the movements of a flea—when you put your finger on it that's the place where it ain't.

THERE'S nothing like reviewing the battleship fleet before Stimson, Robinson & Co. get through with it.

WHERE old King George the third made the mistake of a lifetime was in not inveigling George Washington into a London conference.

SENATOR Hiram Johnson calls attention to the way in which Poohbah Reed, late of the London conference, is, to speak, "doubling in brass," acting in the treaty case as judge, jury, district attorney, counsel for the defense, bailiff, star witness and clerk of the court. Doubtless after the hearing is over every day Janitor Reed takes his mop and bucket and tidies up the place.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

New York, May 22—The Bowery's curling economic question mark—the breadline—is thinning now that warm weather has arrived. Thousands of the shuffling figures who clotted at mission doors at dusk for hot coffee and a free flop have taken to the open road and back door handout.

One of the distinguishing features of the breadline to me was that almost invariably the members wore caps. You rarely saw a hat. The cap becomes a badge of the down-and-outer. The missions are frankly conscious the breadline is composed chiefly of professional floaters.

The floater is the vagabond without charm or romance. He does not want a job nor is he interested in nightly services, save for the material rewards of food and lodging. Yet no floater is turned away. Once in a while there is a conversion and regeneration.

The mission superintendents themselves are paragons of patience. Many have been down and outers and often criminals before "they saw the light." They believe if they were able to turn from wicked paths into respectability there is hope for all.

Nightly they exhort, pray and call mourners to the bench. Sometimes half the audience is in an alcoholic haze, snoring loudly through the services, but there seems to be no such word as discouragement in the lexicon of the mission worker. They carry on against overwhelming difficulties.

The chronic bum drifts from one mission to another through the winter months. The only impediment to his freedom is he must be in the sawdust carpeted flop room by 9 p. m. Regulars in the breadline have frequently mingled together for years yet rarely know each other by real names.

Among the submerged, pasts are never discussed. Men acquire such names as "Red," "Slim," "Fatty" and the like and thus are known to their fellows. Sentiment has long since congealed. Each is strictly for himself. Conversation is restricted to monosyllables.

In a Bowery doorway Lisle Bell and I once saw an example of down and out sympathy. A forlorn fellow was waiting the ambulance after a fall down subway stairs. A buddy, leaning over him, consoled rather tenderly but bitterly: "Even if you croak, you won't be worse off."

The two most opulent facades on 5th ave. these days are those of beauty parlors. One is color contrasts of black, white and red and the other in beige sandstone inset with black plaques. Further up the avenue this fall will be one of pure white marble and too utterly uptown for a window display.

The directeur generale of one palace of pulchritude is a pompous fellow with a sharply pointed beard like a rubicund figure out of a Dutch painting. Patrons are seated in Chippendale chairs while waiting to interview the grand seigneur. He is the personification of old world charm and his job is to make patrons feel it a privilege to be served there. He accomplishes it with magnificent gusto.

Beauty culture doubtless has merits—look at the lady whose initials are P. J.—yet in the hands of bunglers becomes a ghastly thing. New York has three formerly beautiful women symbolizing the frightful danger. They go everywhere in public heavily veiled.

One of the veiled unfortunates used to visit the Montmartre night club. From time to time she lifted the veil for a quick puff of a cigarette. Although she sat in an obscure corner every eye seemed constantly on her. Nothing offers such a touch of mystery as a woman.

"We have," informs a billboard magnate, "erected one of the largest billboards in the world in a Jersey meadow. We want you to see it, read what it proclaims and assure you you will find it great literature."

It wouldn't interest me. I'm not at all bookay.

Gandhi Spins His Cloth

But NEGATIVE Action Produces Small Results

GANDHI, INDIAN LEADER, AS A LAW STUDENT IN LONDON YEARS AGO

GANDHI, 40 YEARS LATER, HEADING "PASSIVE AND PEACEFUL" REBELLION

The two photographs in this column, both taken from "Mahatma Gandhi's Ideas," an interesting study written by C. F. Andrews and published by the Macmillan Company, tell their own story.

In the older man there is resignation. There is no more courageous or sincere man living than Gandhi, and that fact will stand, whatever may be the success or failure of his plan for restoring India to the Hindus and driving out the ruling power of the British Empire.

The world has read a great deal about this strange man in the East, Mahatma Gandhi, leader of more than 200,000,000 Asiatics, in "passive and peaceful" rebellion against Great Britain, by means of "peaceful disobedience."

At this moment Gandhi is in jail, having deliberately violated laws that give to Great Britain a monopoly of the salt industry.

The British at first were content to put his sons and some of his followers in prison. But Gandhi felt that it was necessary for him to go to jail in order to establish the program of peaceful, non-resisting effort.

The British obliged him and locked him up.

The British have had a gigantic industry manufacturing cotton cloth for 300,000,000 of their subjects in India." Millions of British capital and millions of British profits that build fine British homes and big British automobiles are the result of this business.

Gandhi wants to take it away from the British by persuading his Hindu followers to make their own cloth by hand.

In reality you might as well advise each American to spite Henry Ford or Mr. Sloan, of General Motors, by refusing to buy ready-made automobiles and making little wagons by hand. The people might make the little wagons, but they couldn't make six millions of them a year, and they couldn't go fast.

If the Hindus try to make their cotton goods, enough for their needs, they won't be able to do much else; the cotton that they could buy from England for six cents a yard or less will, even with their cheap labor, cost them five times as much, homemade.

India if set free of British control and British PROTECTION tomorrow would immediately become the scene of ferocious internal warfare and savagery.

There are in India roughly, 220,000,000 Hindus, and about 70,000,000 Mohammedans. They hate each other.

The Mohammedans, in wars that have raged through the centuries, have conquered the Hindus with ease and could do it again, in spite of the difference in numbers.

Only British rule keeps the 220,000,000 Hindus and the 70,000,000 Mohammedans from flying at each other's throats.

The high caste Hindus look upon millions of their fellow Hindus as "untouchables." To breathe their breath, brush against them in the streets or eat from plates that they have used, means defilement.

For Britain to retire from control of India would mean to let loose all these hatreds, to restore despotism.

It would mean, worst of all, restoration of child marriage to an unlimited extent, little girls as young as five years old being married to full-grown men. And to the gratification of barbarous millions it would restore "suttee," the dreadful custom of burning young widows alive with the corpses of their old dead husbands.

How long the British, with their 200,000 Europeans among 300,000,000 Asiatics, can continue to rule giant India, nobody can say.

One thing apparently is certain. Namely, that India could not yet rule herself.
